In no part of her work is the character and disposition of the housewife more truly told than in the setting of the table. The little cluster of flowers, field flowers may be, the dainty white linen, so loudly proclaim her earnest desire to make home bright and happy that but a single glance is necessary to enable one to see happiness written all over the little home. Sometimes the purse prohibits many of the things the thoughtful housewife would like—

CASSEROLS, for instance those practical little nickel cased dishes in which any sort of foods can be served direct from the oven to the table, preserving all the flavor and retaining all the heat, and so attractive. The price has been the stumbling block. But by a fortunate stroke we obtained the other day a limited quantity of these useful table decorators which we shall dispose of at about one half the usual asking price - - - $2.50

GENERAL CHARLES R. BRAYTON DEAD.

Widely Known Blind Boss of the Republican Party.

Demise Due to Diabetes, Aggravated by Recent Accident.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 23.—General Charles R. Brayton, known throughout the country as the "blind political boss" of Rhode Island, died at the Jane Brown Hospital here today at the age of 70 years. The aged Republican leader had been a sufferer for more than 10 years from diabetes and this, with a fracture of his hip, which he sustained in a fall in his office August 29, caused his death.

Except to his physician, Dr. Martin S. Budlong, and to his relatives and immediate friends, his death was a great surprise as it was the general impression that he was making rapid progress towards recovery. It did not become evident that the general was dying until last night, when he lapsed into a coma. He expired at 8:45 this morning.

General Brayton's political dominance probably exceeded that of any other political "boss" in the Union. He enjoyed the reputation of never having broken a promise to any constituent in all the 40 years of his supervision of the fortunes of the Republican party in this state. It had been said generally that his power lay in personal regard rather than fear.

The beginning of his physical decline dated from his appearance in the parade of his veteran regiment at its annual reunion last summer, when he suffered a slight collapse. The next incident was August 29, while alone in his law office in the Banigan building he fell, fracturing his hip, and was taken to the Jane Brown Hospital. He was sitting on a couch at the time and started to reach for the telephone, leaning for support on a chair, which slipped, throwing him heavily to the floor.

General Brayton's last public appearance was Sunday, August 28, when he came up from his summer home at Watch Hill, to attend the funeral of his most intimate friend, Sheriff Hunter C. White. The following day he suffered the accident in his office which was the indirect cause of his death. The general's wife and his son William were with him when he died.

By the death of General Brayton there was removed from public life a man who for more than a generation had been a storm centre of politics. Generally known as the "blind boss," General Brayton had made himself a mighty influence in the political destinies of the state. Hated and attacked by his political enemies, he had held his position as leader of Rhode Island Republicans secure for many years, chiefly by virtue of his rugged force and by his ability to control the balance of power in the small towns and villages in the state.

Charles Ray Brayton was born at Warwick, R. I., in 1840. In 1869 he entered Brown University, but left college at the outbreak of the Civil war and served throughout that conflict, being breveted brigadier general in 1865, for "faithful and meritorious services." In the spring of 1867 he was appointed to a captaincy in the regular army, but resigned a few months later. From 1871 to 1880, the general was the postmaster of Providence. Late in life he began the study of law, and was admitted to the Rhode Island bar in 1891, when 51 years old.

Since 1904 he had been the Rhode Island member of the Republican national committee. Throughout his life General Brayton had been active in politics and his apparent eminence in itepublican state politics, and even in state legislation, has become so marked that "Braytonism," as the Democrats of the state termed it, has furnished one of the principal campaign issues in the state for the past half a dozen years.

"Braytonism," however, could not be downed, although within the last few years Rhode Island has had Democratic governors. The last Democratic governor of the state, James H. Higgins of Pawtucket, conducted a persistent campaign against General Brayton. The general, during the sessions of the legislature, had for years made his headquarters in the office of the sheriff of Providence county, in the state capitol building. Governor Higgins objected to the general's action in establishing headquarters at the State House, and tried throughout his entire official term to eject him from the building. The general, however, refused to move, and apparently ignored the attacks made upon him.

Just before Governor Higgins's term expired, General Brayton issued a statement in which he said that, while he considered that he had as much right to be at the State House as the governor had, he nevertheless intended to maintain headquarters elsewhere. He then explained his decision by saying that he feared that his presence at the State House might embarrass the Republican candidate for governor

BIG GUN ON THE GEORGIA BURSTS.

Twelve-Inch Rifle in Forward Turret Ruined.

Crew Escapes Injury in Target Practice Accident.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—During target practice of the Atlantic fleet off the Virginia Capes yesterday one of the big 12-inch 50-ton guns of battleship Georgia burst on the first large shot. The muzzle, as far back as the forward end of the jacket, was blown off. The crew escaped injury. The accident occurred to the left gun in the forward turret of the Georgia and the big rifle was ruined.

The news reached the Navy Department this morning in a wireless despatch from Rear Admiral Schroeder. The Georgia was one of the ships of the Second squadron in the day's target practice. The Georgia, commanded by Captain William L. Rodgers, is the flagship of Rear Admiral Samuel P. Comly, commander of the Third division of the Atlantic fleet.

The Georgia still has three 12-inch guns to work and will continue the target practice with them. It will not interfere with the ship's participating in the coming European cruise of the Atlantic fleet, for another gun which is being built at the Washington navy yard will be in readiness to replace the ruined one by November 1.

MAY BE ASKED TO INTERVENE.

State Department May be Called Into Mexican Railroad Controversy.

GUATEMALA CITY, Tuesday, Sept. 13.—It is possible that the American State Department will be asked to intervene in the controversy that has grown out of the extension of the Mexican National Railroad line into Guatemalan territory. In 1908 the Guatemala Central Railroad, an American corporation, was granted an exclusive concession to extend its line to the frontier of Mexico, thus completing another link in the Pacific American Railroad system. Preferential right was also granted to build a bridge to connect this line with the Mexican Pan-American Railroad. Late in 1909 a company of which David E. Thompson, formerly American ambassador to Mexico, became the president and the son of President Diaz, one of the directors, purchased the Mexican Pan American Railroad. In January last President Thompson secured from the government of Guatemala a concession, allowing him to build a bridge across the Suchiate river and establish a terminal for the Mexican line on Guatemalan soil. This brought forth a vigorous protest from the American line in Guatemala, the owners of which assert that their interests have been jeopardized. The Mexican Pan American Railroad has since passed into the hands of the Mexican government, though Mr. Thompson has retained the ownership of the concession for the bridge which the government-owned line will use.

VETERANS SPLIT ON LEE STATUE.

Conservatives on Committee Defeat Resolutions.

Minority Will Recommend Removal from Capitol.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 23.—The Grand Army veterans are divided on the question of what attitude they shall take on the placing of the statue of General Robert E. Lee in the Capitol at Washington. The committee on resolutions, to which the Lee matter was referred, held a session until early this morning. The conservative elements prevailed and voted not to report any of the state resolutions favoring the movement. A minority of the committee decided to make a minority report, recommending that Congress be requested to remove the Lee statue from the Capitol. The majority members believe the minority report will be voted down at the afternoon session and that the national encampment will adjourn without going on record in the matter.

The Encampment today voted to admit to membership men who were in the revenue cutter service during the Civil war. The Sons of Veterans will not be admitted to meetings of the Grand Army posts, the Encampment deciding to deny the request of the Sons for admission. All the meetings of the posts are secret.

Besides endorsing the McCumber bill, now in Congress, which grants pensions to veterans' widows, providing they married the soldiers three years before they died, admitting about 20,000 widows and increasing the pension rolls $3,000,000 annually, the committee recommended that an amendment be made to the bill increasing from $12 to $15 a month the pensions of veterans 66 years old; from $15 to $20 a month for those over 70, and from $20 to $25 for those over 75. It is expected that a minority report will be presented.

The Sons of Veterans selected Rochester for their next meeting place. The following officers were elected and installed: Commander-in-chief, Fred E. Bolton, Roxbury, Mass.; Senior Vice Commander Edwin C. Ireland, Baltimore; Junior Vice Commander, Frank M. Cunningham, Atlantic City; Secretary, Horace H. Hammer, Reading, Pa.; Council in Chiefs, Hailey V. Steelman, Cincinnati; Fred Phillips, Chicago; Charles F. Sherman, Mount Vernon, N. Y.; J. Lewis Rose of Reading was appointed national treasurer.

LORIMER CASE TO PROCEED.

Senatorial Committee Not to Postpone Action Until November Elections.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The Senatorial sub-committee on privileges and elections, which convened here to investigate the alleged fraud and corruption in the election of Senator William Lorimer, decided today to proceed at this time with the taking of testimony, and not to postpone action until after the November elections, as urged by Mr. Lorimer's attorney. Elbridge Hanecy, at the first open session of the committee yesterday.

At the opening of today's session Chairman Burrows also announced that the committee would permit Attorney Alfred S. Austrian, representing the Chicago Tribune, and former Judge Elbridge Hanecy, representing Senator Lorimer, to appear in the hearings. Mr. Hanecy presented his formal motion for a continuance of the hearing until after the November elections. He declared that Senator Lorimer would be handicapped through a disinclination of legislators, now under indictment to testify before the committee. The Tribune's list of witnesses was submitted and the committee began consideration of methods of procedure.

As a further reason for the continuance, the attorney for Senator Lorimer argued that the Legislative Voters' League and the newspapers were seeking to us the hearing as a political club to defeat different candidates now seeking re-election to the Illinois state legislature. "Minority Leader Lee O'Neil Brown and State Senator John Broderick are under indictment and soon will be tried in Sangamon county, on charges of conspiracy to bribe," said Mr. Hanecy. "To force them to take the stand before the committee at this time will hamper and embarrass their defense."

The committee's decision overruling Senator Lorimer's plea for delay was announced by Senator Paynter of Kentucky.

A short conference resulted in the announcement that the session would adjourn as a public meeting until Monday, to permit Senator Brikeley of Connecticut and Frazier of Tennessee, other members of the investigation sub-committee, to be present.

The committee then went into executive session with Attorneys Austrian and Hanecy, to determine upon the rules of practice at the hearing. The committee has decided, it was announced, to ask for the official record of the Illinois legislature containing the balloting during the period preceding, up to and including the election of Lorimer.

Smart, fashionable, dressy and low priced are a few of the traits responsible for the popularity of our garment department.

Intelligent open-eyed buying has given us an assemblage of garments which is in exact harmony with each of Dame Fashion's most exacting rules.

Durable and desirable fabrics are represented in a diversity of styles in this gathering. These garments are all characterized by the exclusive distinguishment of the BEE HIVE'S style mark. But that isn't all—this individuality is coupled with unusually low prices. Each garment has dash and style, is perfectly man-tailored and superb fabrics used in their making and in viewing these points, notice how radically different many of the weaves and coloring effects are from what you see elsewhere.

Come Thursday, Friday or Saturday and you will surely see the garment you desire.

GILMAN ELECTED.

Opponent for Commander-in-Chief of Grand Army Withdraws.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 22.—John E. Gilman of Boston, a one-armed veteran, was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic today at the national encampment, after a scene which caused many expressions of deep regret among the veterans. John McElroy of Washington, Colonel Gilman's only competitor, withdrew his name in an earnest speech in which he declared that he had been "the target of most persistent, rancorous calumnies, falsehoods and innuendoes."

When Mr. McElroy's name was presented for the highest office in the gift of his comrades he promptly took the floor. He declared that he had become a candidate on the solicitation of thousands of Grand Army men and that he had tried to win the honor fairly, but had been maliciously and falsely assailed. The charges made, he said, had affected his integrity. In every way and were levelled at him on such short notice that he could not make a proper defense in the brief time left before the election. He therefore, he said, withdrew his name as a candidate and asked the encampment to investigate the charges. He said he completely exculpated Gilman and his friends from any hand in the reports circulated.

Despite his announced withdrawal, McElroy's friends rallied around him and insisted upon voting for him. The ballot resulted: Gilman 667, McElroy 216.

After the vote was announced McElroy formally asked the encampment that the new commander-in-chief be directed to appoint a committee of inquiry to investigate his (McElroy's) "administration at St. Cloud, Fla." Objection was made on the ground that it was matter outside the business of the encampment, but his request was granted. The new commander will name the committee later.

The charges referred to by McElroy did not come before the encampment.

Other national officers elected were:

Junior vice commander-in-chief—Charles Burrows, Rutherford, N. J.

Surgeon general—John L. Smith, Spokane, Wash.

Chaplain-in-chief—Rev. Thomas Harwood, Albuquerque, N. M.

Rochester, N. Y., was chosen as the next national encampment city, but a string is attached to the decision. The choice is made contingent upon the condition that satisfactory rates are obtained from the railroads. If, in the judgment of the executive committee of the national council of administration, of the Grand Army, the rates are not to its liking, the committee can select some other city to which reasonable rates can be obtained.

Los Angeles, Denver and Springfield, Ill., were also after the encampment, and San Francisco invited the veterans to the Golden Gate City in 1915. When New Orleans heard of the latter invitation a veteran from the Southern state said the encampment would also hear from New Orleans before 1915, the year for the opening of the Panama canal.

If the most influential members of the Grand Army can prevent it, the present encampment will take no action on the matter of the statue of Robert E. Lee being placed in the national Capitol. Leading members of the Grand Army declare that they do not wish to offend the soldiers of the Confederacy. "Time is healing the wounds inflicted on both sides," said one past national commander today, "and there is no desire to reopen them."

Comprehensively reviewing the work of the organization in the nation for the past year, during which he has acted as its head, Commander-in-Chief Samuel R. Van Sant addressed the delegates as well with an eye to the future good that the great organization might accomplish as upon the notable achievements of its past.

While the roll of the Grand Army is steadily shortening, the commander-in-chief urged that every effort be made to keep the organization up to its fullest possible strength. He quoted figures showing that the Grand Army at the beginning of the present year had still 213,901 members in good standing, as against 220,600 at the beginning of 1909. The loss during the year was 6,781, of which 5,323 was by death. The commander urged that recruiting measures be taken among the large number of former Union soldiers who are not enrolled as Grand Army members.

The speaker noted a better general observance of Memorial day than formerly and urged the general co-operation of members in inducing a general observance of Flag day.

Commander-in-Chief Van Sant had commendation for the work of all the auxiliaries, praising the excellent work being done by the Woman's Relief Corps, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Veterans.

The commander-in-chief expressed himself as particularly gratified at the increasing fraternization of the "Blue and the Gray." He voiced his pleasure at the cordial reception given him during his recent official visit to the Southern departments, not only from the former Union Soldiers, but from ex-Confederates. "In all cities, when possible," he said, "I urged joint meetings of the Blue and the Gray. We had many gatherings of this character, and no more loyal and patriotic sentiments were ever uttered than by the men who fought on the other side."

Colonel Gilman was a member of the Fighting Twelfth Massachusetts infantry, enlisting at a tender age after he had run away from home, smitten with the war fever. The colonel of his regiment was Fletcher Webster, son of the illustrious Daniel Webster, and during his Civil War experience he served successively under Generals Pope, McClellan, Burnside, "Fighting Joe" Hooker and Meade.

The bloodiest engagement of his regiment was at Antietam, where 50 per cent of the men were either killed outright or mortally wounded. He was at the front most of the many days of terrible fighting at Gettysburg and only laid down his gun when one of his arms was blown off by a rebel shell. Gilman is one of the original members of the Grand Army of the Republic, having joined the organization in 1863.

PRE-ANNOUNCEMENT.

With the close of Saturday, September 17, the Public Sale on our stock ceased, and having practically liquidated our former stock we are enabled to start the season with a NEWER and CLEANER stock.

The Newest, Cleanest, Choicest and Most Up-to-Date Stock that Has Ever Been Presented to Newport Shoppers.

There will be no old styles, or merchandise carried over from last season, these have been disposed of and liquidated at our stupendous public sale, the stock presented will be NEW the best and latest that foreign and domestic markets can supply. Our New York buyer has for weeks been busily engaged, placing orders, and a member of the firm has left for the Metropolis of our markets to personally superintend these tremendous purchases. We intend to make this "The Shopping Place" of Newport and shall endeavor to present such a collection of high grade merchandise that will satisfy the demands of the most discriminate fashion devotee, and at prices that will transpass the most daring expectations of the shrewdest and most exacting shoppers. Fast freight and express are already showering shipment after shipment upon us, and as soon as the huge purchases have been completed and arrived we shall inaugurate

A Fall Opening

That will be a revelation to our patrons, a revelation to the entire populace of Newport. An array of styles that would set a fairyland to shame. Qualities that will vie with the best.

A FISH DINNER.

A Thick Halibut Steak is Best for Baking Purposes.

Appetizing Sauces for Meats May be Made From Chestnuts, Capers and Chicken Stock.

[Cornelia C. Bedford.]

Menu.
Cucumber Soup.
Baked Halibut. Tomato Sauce.
Boiled Potatoes. Succotash.
Lettuce Salad.
Wafers. Cream Cheese.
Grape Sherbet.
Coffee.

The following quantities will suffice for six. Three cucumbers, two and a half pounds of halibut (or a little less if in a thick fishpiece), one pint of tomatoes, one quart of potatoes, one pint of shelled lima beans, six ears of corn, a head of lettuce, one cream cheese, one pint of freshly pressed grape juice (about two pounds of grapes).

Peel and slice the cucumbers and one small onion. Put over the fire with one pint of boiling water and a half teaspoonful of salt and simmer until very tender, then press through a sieve. In a double boiler heat one scant quart of milk; rub one tablespoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of flour together to a paste, drop the dump in the hot milk and stir gently until the milk is thickened like cream. Add the cucumber puree and seasoning to taste. When about to serve stir in three tablespoonfuls of hot cream.

A thick halibut steak is best for baking. Wash it thoroughly and dry on a cloth. Just before placing it in the baking pan rub both sides with a little salt. Cut the tomatoes fine, add to them a half teaspoonful of salt, a dozen peppercorns, a half onion chopped, a sprig of parsley, a sprig of thyme and stew until very soft, then press through a sieve. Return to the fire and thicken with one teaspoonful of cornstarch blended with a little cold water. In the baking pan put three thin slices of fat salt pork and on these arrange the fish. Pour over the top a half-cupful of the sauce and place in a hot oven. In 15 minutes baste with a little more sauce, repeating the basting later a second time. A two-inch slice of halibut will cook through in about 40 minutes. When the flesh begins to draw away from the bones it is done. Transfer carefully to a hot platter, pour over a few spoonfuls of the sauce and garnish with cress or parsley. Serve the remainder of the sauce in a boat.

Lima beans, if very tiny and young, will cook in a little under half an hour; if large 40 minutes should be allowed. Place in a saucepan, add a half-teaspoonful of salt and enough boiling water to half-cover. Boil steadily. About 12 minutes before serving add the corn, which has been cut from the cob, more salt and a little pepper to taste with an heaping tablespoonful of butter. In some households it is the custom to add milk but many think the finished dish better when only a liberal allowance of butter is used.

Any kinds of grapes may be used in making the sherbet, the darker varieties giving, of course, the deepest color. Stem and wash thoroughly, place in a kettle with a cupful of water and heat slowly until the pulp will separate readily from the seeds. Turn into a colander and let drip, then press slightly to obtain the tender part of the pulp. Measure and to a pint add one pint of sugar (scant this if the grapes are very sweet) and stir until dissolved. Add one cupful and a half of cold water, the strained juice of one lemon and freeze. When like mush open the freezer and stir in the white of one egg which has been beaten to a meringue with two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Mix thoroughly and finish the freezing. Draw off a part of the brine, re-pack with more ice and salt and set aside in the cellar or other cold place for two hours to ripen.

Chestnut Sauce—Soak four ounces of dried chestnuts for 12 hours in cold water, drain them from the water and put in a stewpan with some good brown stock. Stew until the chestnuts are tender, then rub through a sieve and return to the pan with enough milk to make a thick sauce, one ounce of butter, pepper, salt and a grating of nutmeg. Warm through and serve.

Caper Sauce—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan without browning, add one tablespoonful of flour, rub until smooth, then add one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water. Stir over the fire until it thickens. Add two tablespoonfuls of capers. Take from the fire and stir into the sauce with the juice of one-half of a lemon and the yolk of one egg. Season with salt and pepper and serve.

Sauce Supreme—Put two ounces of butter in a saucepan, add two even tablespoonfuls of flour; mix and cook over the fire until it bubbles, but not until it browns. Now add three gills of strong chicken stock, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one bay leaf, one teaspoonful of salt, and a dash of white pepper. Stir constantly until it boils, then cover the saucepan and stand it over boiling water for 20 minutes. Strain and add one gill of thick cream and two tablespoonfuls of sherry, and, if you like, a drop or two of lemon juice. This same recipe may be followed with the white meat of a chicken, uncooked, or with sweetbread and the whites of the eggs.

Spanish Sauce—Cook together for 10 minutes two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of chopped onion, one tablespoonful of chopped carrot, and one tablespoonful of chopped celery. Add two tablespoonfuls of flour and cook until a rich brown; add one pint of consumme or rich clarified stock and stir until thick and smooth; add one tablespoonful of chopped ham, one bay leaf, two cloves, a spring of parsley, a blade of mace and salt and pepper to season. Simmer very slowly for two hours, add one-quarter of a box of gelatine which has been soaked for 15 minutes in one-half of a cupful of consumme until soft. Simmer for 15 minutes longer, skim and strain.

Dutch Sauce—Put the yolks of four eggs, two ounces of butter, two tablespoonfuls of cream, a teablespoonful of tarragon vinegar, a grating of nutmeg, and a palatable seasoning of salt and pepper into a small porcelain saucepan. Stir over the fire until of the consistence of thick cream, and it is ready to use.

TWO BOOKS IN ONE.

"Susan Clegg, Her Friend and Her Neighbors" Consists of Former "Susan" Stories.

Anne Warner has combined "Susan Clegg and Her Friend Mrs. Lathrop" and "Susan Clegg and Her Neighbors' Affairs" in one volume, entitled "Susan Clegg, Her Friend and Her Neighbors." The Susan Clegg stories have become widely known. Their ridiculous situations, original remarks and never-failing humor and sarcasm are irresistible. Susan is irrepressible. Her comments on her own affairs as well those of her neighbors are funny enough to make even a hypochondriac succumb to a hearty laugh. Her lack of tact and plumbness of speech, of which she is proud, being "open 'n aboveboard;" her good opinion of herself, "never was a foul 'n' never will be;" her contempt for men and matrimony and her views of life in general make her an interesting character.

Susan is a capable, energetic woman in contrast to her friend Mrs. Lathrop who is of the easy-going type, slow and placid. She never finds fault with Susan's rebukes or sharp speeches but accepts them meekly. She is used to such remarks as "If I was give to havin' ideas 's senseless 's yours often are I'd certainly keep my mouth shut 'n' let other people 's knows more do the talking," or "It's no use your askin me to stop to supper, because my heart is set on soda biscuits 'n' I like my own better than any one could ever like yours." Susan does the talking and Mrs. Lathrop the listening but if the latter manages to wedge in a word she is reminded that if she was less inclined to talk she might hear or learn something.

Gran'ma Mullins, Mrs. Macy, Deacon White and the minister are some of the neighbors on whose affairs Susan comments. The minister with his 11 children is a favorite topic, and "The Minister's Vacation" is a chapter full of good things. The children are parceled out to various families, who soon have their hands full with the escapades of their young charges. Deacon White and his love affairs in which he asks the assistance of Susan, is rich reading. As for Gran'ma Mullins, she is overcome with woe because her only child and son is to be married. She fears his wife will not be pleased with Hiram's sweet little ways, such as having the "potato masher right by his place at the table 'n' pound the meat to make more juice," or eating gingerbread and whistling in the middle of the night until he gets to sleep again."

Each chapter has its laughable episodes, but among the best are "Jathrop Lathrop's Cow," which did dreadful damage in the village, "The Marrying of Susan Clegg," who didn't marry after all; "Mrs. Lathrop's Love Affair," which comes to an abrupt ending, and "Lucy Dill's Wedding," which in its untoward incidents is matched only by another wedding, in which "Mr. Jilkins's Hat" plays a prominent part.

ZEMO and ZEMO SOAP can be obtained in any city or town in America and are recognized the best and most economical treatment for all affections of the skin or scalp whether on infant or grown person. One shampoo with ZEMO SOAP and application of ZEMO will stop itching and cleanse the scalp of dandruff and scurf.

We invite you to try ZEMO and ZEMO SOAP and if not entirely satisfied we will refund your money.

IF WE HAD THE TIME.

[Richard Burton, in National Magazine.]

If I had the time to find a place
And sit me down full face to face
With my better self, that stands no show
In my daily life that rushes so,
Tonight he then I would see my soul
Was stumbling still toward the shining goal—
I might be nerved by the thought sublime,
If I had the time!

If I had the time to let my heart
Speak out and take in my life a part,
To look about and stretch a hand
To a comrade quartered on no-luck land,
Ah, God! if I might but just sit still
And hear the note of the whip-poor-will,
I think that my wish with God would rayme—
If I had the time!

If I had the time to learn from you
How much for comfort my word would do;
And I told you then of my sudden will
To kiss your feet when I did you ill—
If the tears aback of the bravado
Could force their way and let you know—
Brothers, the souls of us all would chime,
If we had the time!

Young Woman—Did you see the way that man looked at me? It was positively insulting.

Big Brother—Did he stare at you?

Newport, September 23rd, 1910.

Probate Court of the City of Newport.
September 23rd, 1910.

Estate of David A. Pitt.

Frank W. Tillinghast, Administrator de bonis non with the will annexed of the estate of David A. Pitt, late of said Newport, deceased, presents his petition, representing that the personal estate of said deceased is not sufficient to pay the debts which said deceased owed, the expenses of his funeral, and of supporting his family, and settling his estate according to law; that said deceased, at the time of his death, was seized and possessed of all that certain parcel of land with the buildings and improvements thereon, situate in the said City of Newport and bounded and described as follows: Westerly on Mount Vernon Street, fifty (50) feet, Northerly on land formerly of Robert Minckler deceased, One hundred and three (103) feet, Easterly partly on land of John H. Cresby, Jr. and partly on land of William F. Barstow, fifty (50) feet and Southerly on land of Abbie P. Cozzens, one hundred and three (103) feet. He all said measurements more or less or however otherwise bounded or described. It being the same property conveyed to David A. Pitt deceased, by deed from Edmund D. Sloeum and Mary E. Sloeum dated March 8th, A. D. 1880 and recorded in Volume 50 of the Land Evidence of said Newport at page 467.

And further representing, that, by a sale of only so much of said real estate as is absolutely needed, the residue thereof would be so much injured, as to render the sale of the whole estate more advantageous to those interested therein.

And praying that he may be authorized to sell the whole of said estate, or so much thereof as may be necessary to make up the deficiency of the personal estate, for the purpose aforesaid, with incidental charges: and said petition is received and referred to the Tenth day of October next at ten o'clock, A. M., at the Probate Court Room, in said Newport, for consideration, and it is ordered that notice thereof be published for fourteen days, once a week, in the Newport Daily News.

GILMAN ELECTED.

Opponent for Commander-in-Chief of Grand Army Withdraws.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 22.—John E. Gilman of Boston, a one-armed veteran, was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic today at the national encampment, after a scene which caused many expressions of deep regret among the veterans. John McElroy of Washington, Colonel Gilman's only competitor, withdrew his name in an earnest speech in which he declared that he had been "the target of most persistent, rancorous calumnies, falsehoods and innuendoes."

When Mr. McElroy's name was presented for the highest office in the gift of his comrades he promptly took the floor. He declared that he had become a candidate on the solicitation of thousands of Grand Army men and that he had tried to win the honor fairly, but had been maliciously and falsely assailed. The charges made, he said, had affected his integrity, in every way and were levelled at him on such short notice that he could not make a proper defense in the brief time left before the election. He therefore, he said, withdrew his name as a candidate and asked the encampment to investigate the charges. He said he completely exculpated Gilman and his friends from any hand in the reports circulated.

Despite his announced withdrawal, McElroy's friends rallied around him and insisted upon voting for him. The ballot resulted: Gilman 667, McElroy 216.

After the vote was announced McElroy formally asked the encampment that the new commander-in-chief be directed to appoint a committee of inquiry to investigate his (McElroy's) "administration at St. Cloud, Fla." Objection was made on the ground that it was matter outside the business of the encampment, but his request was granted. The new commander will name the committee later.

The charges referred to by McElroy did not come before the encampment.

Other national officers elected were:

Junior vice commander-in-chief—Charles Burrows, Rutherford, N. J.

Surgeon general—John L. Smith, Spokane, Wash.

Chaplain-in-Chief—Rev. Thomas Harwood, Albuquerque, N. M.

Rochester, N. Y., was chosen as the next national encampment city, but a string is attached to the decision. The choice is made contingent upon the condition that satisfactory rates are obtained from the railroads. If, in the judgment of the executive committee of the national council of administration, of the Grand Army, the rates are not to its liking, the committee can select some other city to which reasonable rates can be obtained.

Los Angeles, Denver and Springfield, Ill., were also after the encampment, and San Francisco invited the veterans to the Golden Gate City in 1915. When New Orleans heard of the latter invitation a veteran from the Southern state said the encampment would also hear from New Orleans before 1915, the year for the opening of the Panama canal.

If the most influential members of the Grand Army can prevent it, the present encampment will take no action on the matter of the statue of Robert E. Lee being placed in the national Capitol. Leading members of the Grand Army declare that they do not wish to offend the soldiers of the Confederacy. "Time is healing the wounds inflicted on both sides," said one past national commander today, "and there is no desire to reopen them."

Comprehensively reviewing the work of the organization in the nation for the past year, during which he has acted as its head, Commander-in-Chief Samuel R. Van Sant addressed the delegates as well with an eye to the future good that the great organization might accomplish as upon the notable achievements of its past.

While the roll of the Grand Army is steadily shortening, the commander-in-chief urged that every effort be made to keep the organization up to its fullest possible strength. He quoted figures showing that the Grand Army at the beginning of the present year had still 213,901 members in good standing, as against 220,600 at the beginning of 1909. The loss during the year was 6,781, of which 5,323 was by death. The commander urged that recruiting measures be taken among the large number of former Union soldiers who are not enrolled as Grand Army members.

The speaker noted a better general observance of Memorial day than formerly and urged the general co-operation of members in inducing a general observance of Flag day.

Commander-in-Chief Van Sant had commendation for the work of all the auxiliaries, praising the excellent work being done by the Woman's Relief Corps, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Veterans.

The commander-in-chief expressed himself as particularly gratified at the increasing fraternization of the "Blue and the Gray." He voiced his pleasure at the cordial reception given him during his recent official visit to the Southern departments, not only from the former Union Soldiers, but from ex-Confederates. "In all cities, when possible," he said, "I urged joint meetings of the Blue and the Gray. We had many gatherings of this character, and no more loyal and patriotic sentiments were ever uttered than by the men who fought on the other side."

Colonel Gilman was a member of the Fighting Twelfth Massachusetts infantry, enlisting at a tender age after he had run away from home, smitten with the war fever. The colonel of his regiment was Fletcher Webster, son of the illustrious Daniel Webster, and during his Civil War experience he served successively under Generals Pope, McClellan, Burnside, "Fighting Joe" Hooker and Meade.

The bloodiest engagement of his regiment was at Antietam, where 80 per cent of the men were either killed outright or mortally wounded. He was at the front most of the many days of terrible fighting at Gettysburg and only laid down his gun when one of his arms was blown off by a rebel shell.

Gilman is one of the original members of the Grand Army of the Republic, having joined the organization in 1863.

The back aches because the kidneys are blockaded.

Help the kidneys with their work.

The back will ache no more.

Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

It's the best proof, for it comes from Newport.

Mrs. Sarah E. Freeman, 21 Warner Street, Newport, R. I., says: "My nephew was more or less troubled by backache for some time. Often it kept him awake at night, and in the morning he arose feeling stiff and lame. In addition to backache other difficulties existed which left no doubt that his kidneys were affected, and wholly responsible for his suffering. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, he procured a box at Wright & Hay's Drug Store and their use brought results that proved them to be a remedy of great merit."

A FISH DINNER.

A Thick Halibut Steak is Best for Baking Purposes.

Appetizing Sauces for Meats May be Made From Chestnuts, Capers and Chicken Stock.

[Cornelia C. Bedford.]

Menu.
Cucumber Soup.
Baked Halibut, Tomato Sauce.
Boiled Potatoes Succotash.
Lettuce Salad.
Wafers. Cream Cheese.
Grape Sherbet.
Coffee.

The following quantities will suffice for six. Three cucumbers, two and a half pounds of halibut (or a little less if in a thick tailpiece), one pint of tomatoes, one quart of potatoes, one pint of shelled lima beans, six ears of corn, a head of lettuce, one cream cheese, one pint of freshly pressed grape juice (about two pounds of grapes).

Peel and slice the cucumbers and one small onion. Put over the fire with one pint of boiling water and a half teaspoonful of salt and simmer until very tender, then press through a sieve. In a double boiler heat one scant quart of milk; rub one tablespoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of flour together to a paste, drop the lump in the hot milk and stir gently until the milk is thickened like cream. Add the cucumber puree and seasoning to taste. When about to serve stir in three tablespoonfuls of hot cream.

A thick halibut steak is best for baking. Wash it thoroughly and dry on a cloth. Just before placing it in the baking pan rub both sides with a little salt. Cut the tomatoes fine, add to them a half teaspoonful of salt, a dozen peppercorns, a half onion chopped, a sprig of parsley, a sprig of thyme and stew until very soft, then press through a sieve. Return to the fire and thicken with one teaspoonful of cornstarch blended with a little cold water. In the baking pan put three thin slices of fat salt pork and on these arrange the fish. Pour over the top a half-cupful of the sauce and place in a hot oven. In 15 minutes baste with a little more sauce, repeating the basting later a second time. A two-inch slice of halibut will cook through in about 40 minutes. When the flesh begins to draw away from the bones it is done. Transfer carefully to a hot platter, pour over a few spoonfuls of the sauce and garnish with cress or parsley. Serve the remainder of the sauce in a boat.

Lima beans, if very tiny and young, will cook in a little under half an hour; if large 40 minutes should be allowed. Place in a saucepan, add a half-teaspoonful of salt and enough boiling water to half-cover. Boil steadily. About 12 minutes before serving and the corn, which has been cut from the cob, more salt and a little pepper to taste with an heaping tablespoonful of butter. In some households it is the custom to add milk but many think the finished dish better when only a liberal allowance of butter is used.

Any kinds of grapes may be used in making the sherbet, the darker varieties giving, of course, the deepest color. Stem and wash thoroughly, place in a kettle with a cupful of water and heat slowly until the pulp will separate readily from the seeds. Turn into a colander and let drip, then press slightly to obtain the tender part of the pulp. Measure and to a pint add one pint of sugar (scant this if the grapes are very sweet) and stir until dissolved. Add one cupful and a half of cold water, the strained jiuice of one lemon and freeze. When like mush open the freezer and stir in the white of one egg which has been beaten to a meringue with two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Mix thoroughly and finish the freezing. Draw off a part of the brine, re-pack with more ice and salt and set aside in the cellar or other cold place for two hours to ripen.

Chestnut Sauce—Soak four ounces of dried chestnuts for 12 hours in cold water, drain them from the water and put in a stewpan with some good brown stock. Stew until the chestnuts are tender, then rub through a sieve and return to the pan with enough milk to make a thick sauce, one ounce of butter, pepper, salt and a grating of nutmeg. Warm through and serve.

Caper Sauce—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan without browning, add one tablespoonful of flour, rub until smooth, then add one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water. Stir over the fire until it thickens. Add two tablespoonfuls of capers. Take from the fire and stir into the sauce with the juice of one-half of a lemon and the yolk of one egg. Season with salt and pepper and serve.

Sauce Supreme—Put two ounces of butter in a saucepan, add two even tablespoonfuls of flour; mix and cook over the fire until it bubbles, but not until it browns. Now add three gills of strong chicken stock, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one bay leaf, one teaspoonful of salt, and a dash of white pepper. Stir constantly until it boils, then cover the saucepan and stand it over boiling water for 20 minutes. Strain and add one gill of thick cream and two tablespoonfuls of sherry, and, if you like, a drop or two of lemon juice. This same recipe may be followed with the white meat of a chicken, uncooked, or with sweetbread and the whites of the eggs.

Spanish Sauce—Cook together for 10 minutes two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of chopped onion, one tablespoonful of chopped carrot, and one tablespoonful of chopped celery. Add two tablespoonfuls of flour and cook until a rich brown; add one pint of consumme or rich clarified stock and stir until thick and smooth; add one tablespoonful of chopped ham, one bay leaf, two cloves, a spring of parsley, a blade of mace and salt and pepper to season. Simmer very slowly for two hours, add one-quarter of a box of gelatine which has been soaked for 15 minutes in one-half of a cupful of consumme until soft. Simmer for 15 minutes longer, skim and strain.

Dutch Sauce—Put the yolks of four eggs, two ounces of butter, two tablespoonfuls of cream, a teablespoonful of tarragon vinegar, a grating of nutmeg, and a palatable seasoning of salt and pepper into a small porcelain saucepan. Stir over the fire until of the consistence of thick cream, and it is ready to use.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Almy have as guest for some weeks Mrs. Matilda Wilcox and on one day this week also entertained Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Cook of Newport; Mr. Otis Wilcox and Miss Mina Wilcox of New Bedford and Mr. and Mrs. Pascal Conley of Middletown, which with the family made 16.

Mrs. George Hart has had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Phinney of New Bedford.

Oakland Lodge, I. O. O. F., intends holding a bazaar in November, the profits to pay for improvements to the hall, including painting.

Mrs. John Murphy is entertaining Mr. Charles Ross of Newport.

TWO BOOKS IN ONE.

"Susan Clegg, Her Friend and Her Neighbors" Consists of Former "Susan" Stories.

Anne Warner has combined "Susan Clegg and Her Friend Mrs. Lathrop" and "Susan Clegg and Her Neighbors Affairs" in one volume, entitled "Susan Clegg, Her Friend and Her Neighbors." The Susan Clegg stories have become widely known. Their ridiculous situations, original remarks and never-failing humor and sarcasm are irresistible. Susan is irrepressible. Her comments on her own affairs as well those of her neighbors are funny enough to make even a hypochondriac succumb to a hearty laugh. Her lack of tact and bluntness of speech, of which she is proud, being "open 'n aboveboard," her good opinion of herself, "never was a fool 'n' never will be;" her contempt for men and matrimony and her views of life in general make her an interesting character.

Susan is a capable, energetic woman in contrast to her friend Mrs. Lathrop who is of the easy-going type, slow and placid. She never finds fault with Susan's robukos or sharp speeches but accepts them meekly. She is used to such remarks as "If I was give to havin' ideas 's senseless 's yours often are I'd certainly keep my mouth shut 'n' let other people 'a knows more do the talking," or "It's no use your askin me to stop to supper, because my heart is set on sudn biscuits 'n' I like my own better than any one could ever like yourn." Susan does the talking and Mrs. Lathrop the listening but if the latter manages to wedge in a word she is reminded that if she was less inclined to talk she might hear or learn something.

Gran'ma Mullins, Mrs. Macy, Deacon White and the minister are some of the neighbors on whose affairs Susan comments. The minister with his 13 children is a favorite topic, and "The Minister's Vacation" is a chapter full of good things. The children are parceled out to various families who soon have their hands full with the escapades of their young charges. Deacon White and his love affairs in which he asks the assistance of Susan, is rich reading. As for Gran'ma Mullins, she is overcome with woe because her only child and son is to be married. She fears his wife will not be pleased with Hiram's sweet little ways, such as having the "potato masher right by his place at the table 'n' pound the meat to make more juice," or eating gingerbread and whistling in the middle of the night until he gets to sleep again."

Each chapter has its laughable episodes, but among the best are "Jathrop Lathrop's Cow," which did dreadful damage in the village, "The Marrying of Susan Clegg," who didn't marry after all; "Mrs. Lathrop's Love Affair," which comes to an abrupt ending, and "Lucy Dill's Wedding," which in its untoward incidents is matched only by another wedding, in which "Mr. Jilkins's Hat" plays a prominent part.

DANDRUFF AND ITCHING SCALP YIELD TO THIS TREATMENT.

Why experiment trying to drive the dandruff germ from underneath the skin with greasy lotions or fancy hairdressing, when John M. Callahan's Drug Store will guarantee ZEMO and ZEMO SOAP to entirely rid the scalp of the germ life that causes the trouble.

ZEMO and ZEMO SOAP can be obtained in any city or town in America and are recognized the best and most economical treatment for all affections of the skin or scalp whether on infant or grown person. One shampoo with ZEMO SOAP and application of ZEMO will stop itching and cleanse the scalp of dandruff and scurf.

We invite you to try ZEMO and ZEMO SOAP and if not entirely satisfied we will refund your money.

IF WE HAD THE TIME.

[Richard Burton, in National Magazine.]

If I had the time to find a place
And sit me down full face to face
With my better self, that stands no show
In my daily life that rushes so,
I might be then I would see my soul
Was stumbling still toward the shining goal—
I might be nerved by the thought sublime,
If I had the time!

If I had the time to let my heart
Speak out and take in my life a part,
To look about and stretch a hand
To a comrade quartered on no-luck land,
Ah, God! if I might but just sit still
And hear the note of the whip-poor-will,
I think that my wish with God would rhyme—
If I had the time!

If I had the time to learn from you
How much for comfort my word would do;
And I told you then of my sudden will
To kiss your feet when I did you ill—
If the tears aback of the bravado
Could force their way and let you know—
Brothers, the souls of us all would chime,
If we had the time!

September 22nd, 1910.

Estate of David A. Patt.

Frank W. Tillinghast, Administrator de bonis non with the will annexed of the estate of David A. Patt, late of said Newport, deceased, presents his petition, representing that the personal estate of said deceased is not sufficient to pay the debts which said deceased owed, the expenses of his funeral, and of supporting his family, and settling his estate according to law; that said deceased, at the time of his death, was seized and possessed of all that certain parcel of land with the buildings and improvements thereon situate in the said City of Newport and bounded and described as follows: Westerly on Mount Vernon Street, fifty (50) feet, Northerly on land formerly of Robert Minekler deceased, One hundred and three (103) feet, Easterly partly on land of John H. Crosby, Jr. and partly on land of William F. Harstow, fifty (50) feet and Southerly on land of Abbie P. Coxzens, one hundred and three (103) feet. Be all said measurements more or less or however otherwise bounded or described. It being the same property conveyed to David A. Patt deceased, by deed from Edmund D. Slocum and Mary E. Slocum dated March 6th, A. D. 1880 and recorded in Volume 50 of the Land Evidence of said Newport at page 467.

And further representing, that, by a sale of only so much of said real estate as is absolutely needed, the residue thereof would be so much injured, as to render the sale of the whole estate more advantageous to those interested therein.

And praying that he may be authorized to sell the whole of said estate, or so much thereof as may be necessary to make up the deficiency of the personal estate, for the purpose aforesaid, with incidental charges; and said petition is received and referred to the Tenth day of October next at ten o'clock, A. M., at the Probate Court Room, in said Newport, for consideration, and it is ordered that notice thereof be published for fourteen days, once a week, in the Newport Daily News.

THE PASSING OF BRAYTON.

Rhode Island will miss General Charles R. Brayton. He was the sort of man who makes himself felt. His career as leader of the Republican party was unique, and his place in that respect is not likely to be filled. He was a controlling force in every form of legislation which the party enacted and ruled its councils with a firm hand. A brave soldier, the veterans of the Civil war held him in high esteem. He was a prominent figure at Grand Army meetings and the old veterans liked to hear him talk. He had hosts of friends throughout the state, not only among his party associates, but among his political enemies, and one of his strongest qualities was his devotion to his friends and his unfailing faithfulness to his promises.

He will be missed not only among the Republicans of Rhode Island, but by the Democrats as well, for they made him an issue when issues were scarce in state politics. No one of such positive character as his can fail to make enemies, and the Republican party in Rhode Island has undoubtedly suffered severely from his connection with it, though he was probably not nearly so black as he was painted by his political opponents. With all the criticism which has been heaped upon him, one must recognize that he had qualities which appealed to men and made them his staunch friends, as well as many strong and determined enemies. It is not too much to say that Rhode Island will never see his like again.

THE INTELLECTUAL LOCKSTEP.

A college professor in an address to teachers not long ago said the people of this country were too much addicted to the lockstep in thought and action; that is, they march too close together and follow too regularly in each others' footsteps. His idea was that there is too little independence and initiative in thinking and acting, that in educational work, in politics and in religious matters people are too subservient to public opinion, too willing to be run by machinery or be a part of machinery, too ready to be led rather than to lead, too much inclined to take opinions second-hand instead of having some of our own. This is what he calls the lockstep in thought and action, and he is quite right in saying that people are too much addicted to it in this country. The prevalence of this acceptance of the thinking of others to save the trouble of thinking for ourselves, of following the lead of those who have blazed the way instead of discovering some new path, is evident on every hand and in every walk of life. There are comparatively few inventors, pioneers, discoverers, but plenty of followers where others have trod.

The lockstep is going out of fashion in prisons. Within a short time it has been abolished in this state, because it makes the prisoner too conspicuous and places on him a mark of recognition as a criminal when he leaves at the expiration of his sentence, and so handicaps him for the future. How much more important is it that as a people and as individuals we should be emancipated from the lockstep of thought and action which becomes so strong a habit that, like the prisoner, after a while we cannot accommodate ourselves to any other and are marked for life as men who have been marching behind others in the close contact of those whose steps are locked together to prevent a stepping out of line. The analogy is so appropriate, and yet so forceful in its application, that it ought to make us hesitate to acquire that step, or if we have already acquired it to continue to practice it.

The lockstep has come to be considered a curse in prison life, and ought be regarded as still more so in the intellectual and working life. There will be more clear and independent thinking in all departments of intellectual activity and more decisive and independent action in every phase of life. There should be more leaders and fewer followers. If such were the case there would be greater advance in education, fewer bosses in politics, less stereotyped forms of thought and belief in religious things, and in all these fields the result would be the much greater advantage of the people and the more rapid advance of civilization the world over. The country needs more men and women to do their own thinking, to decide for themselves as to their course of action, and to follow their decisions with determination and persistence. Lack of initiative is one of the great difficulties found in arousing public sentiment and inducing to concerted action. People think and act in ruts. They have become so used to the lockstep form of locomotion that they find it much the easiest way to walk.

Surely if the lockstep has gone out of fashion in prisons it is time it were discarded in the real life of the world, for it has the same effect when it fetters the intellect as when it hampers the freedom of the criminal. The world moves and what seems desirable in one age becomes undesirable in another. The lockstep in the past has been regarded as indispensable in prisons and now is looked upon as unnecessary and objectionable. There may have been a time though that is not so certain, when the lockstep in thinking and acting was desirable, when independent thinking and acting by individuals was not to be commended. If that is so the time has surely long since gone by and the hour has come for the abandonment of the lockstep in intellectual activity and the substitution of the utmost freedom of thought and action.

FORTIFYING PANAMA.

General Keifer was certainly wrong when he argued before the Interparliamentary Union in Brussels that we have no right to fortify the Isthmian canal. We have the right, but that we should do it is a very different thing. General Keifer ought to remember that the treaty negotiated by Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote providing for the neutralization of the canal was received with indignant disgust by the jingoes, in the Senate and out of it. Our Secretary of State and the British ambassador had their work to do over again, and the result was a treaty which abrogated the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and left us free to fortify the canal, although Mr. Bunau-Varilla is still persuaded that we have no right to do this. So far as our treaty position goes we have a right to fortify the canal, and President Taft is as much in favor of that policy as was his predecessor. He desires two million dollars to begin the work of building forts.

While General Keifer is wrong as to the diplomatic position of the fortification question, he is wholly sound in his views of its public policy. The Suez canal is neutralized by the agreement of the maritime powers and there is no good reason why the Panama canal should not be treated in the same way. It is not a part of our coast line and there is no use in treating it as such. In any case, we should undoubtedly have a fleet of war vessels on each ocean not far from the canal, whether the canal be fortified or not. The notion that we need the canal in order to run war vessels through from one ocean to the other had a good deal to do with undertaking the enterprise, but is really of insignificant importance because we are enlarging the navy to the extent of maintaining a large force on each ocean. Neutralization would not interfere with this, however. An international agreement which would keep the canal open for all commercial and prevent its use for belligerent purposes would meet all the requirements and satisfy all the demands which we have a right to make. The next session of Congress will be called upon to decide between fortification and neutralization.

POLITICS AND BUSINESS.

Mr. C. A. Conant's apprehensions that the election of a Democratic Congress will be bad for the business of the country suggest the query when he ceased to be a Democrat himself. If he has not ceased, how does he manage to remain a Democrat and regard a Democratic victory with apprehension?

A Democratic Congress, he says, would mean a speedy re-opening of the tariff question, and that would make the whole business world hold its breath. Did it last year? The business of the country went on expanding all the while Congress was debating the tariff. If we may judge from the reaction this year, business revived too fast last year; it would have been better all around if something had checked the expansion.

Of course a Republican will retort plausibly that business was not afraid of tariff revision by Republicans but would be terribly alarmed at tariff revision by Democrats, but one would hardly expect this opinion from a man who was a Democratic candidate for Congressman in a Massachusetts district a few years ago. There have not been enough Democratic victories in recent years to give us facts bearing on this problem, but we know by commercial, financial and industrial statistics that the prosperity of 1892 continued right through the Presidential campaign and was not checked by the election of a Democratic President and Congress.

Business is far less sensitive to politics than is commonly assumed; even years of Presidential elections are as apt to be good for business as bad. Of course if the issue in an election is the preservation of the unit of value business will be intensely concerned. Yet the revival of business began in 1896, before the result of the campaign was assured, just as soon as the bad wheat crops in Europe and our good crop began to make themselves felt. Business was good in 1880. The panic of 1884 came early and was over and the country recuperating before the Presidential campaign was well under way. Business was finer than ever in 1892. The year 1896 has been referred to. The recovery from the panic of 1907 was going on through the Presidential campaign of 1908 and the tariff revision of 1909. It's about time people stopped this talk of the paralyzing effects of politics on business.

A man is apparently never too old to be married; at least, there are four men who are quite well advanced in life who think so. Thursday John S. Lyle, 92 years old, married Miss Julia G. Hannon, aged 30; Rev. Herrick Johnson, D. D., formerly president of McCormick Theological Seminary at Chicago, aged 78, wedded Miss Margaret Duncan, aged 30; Augustus Blankenhorn, 73, married Mrs. Bertha Brend, 65, and J. Henry Smith, 76, married Miss Amanda J. Williams, 58. This will do very well for one day's record.

Boston's sealer of weights and measures is making war on the "trade custom" barrels in which sweet potatoes have been shipped to that market, and announces that he will prosecute every man who attempts to sell them for full barrels, on the ground that they are short weights. There may be opportunity for some official to make similar prosecutions in Newport, but no one here seems to care.

Even Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader, admits that the sentiment among the Democrats of New York seems to favor the nomination of Mayor Gaynor for governor, and there is little doubt that he can have it if he will consent to be a candidate. As yet Judge Gaynor gives no intimation as to what he proposes to do.

Speaker Cannon, it seems, has not actually turned down an offer to go into vaudeville at $50,000 a week. He received an offer by telegraph, but as the message was not signed he tore up the paper and threw it in the waste basket. He probably would have done the same if the message had been signed.

Galveston, Texas, has the almost unique distinction of decrease in population in the past ten years. It is only a small loss, 808, or 2.1 per cent, but that is enough. On the other hand, San Antonio shows an increase of 43,252, or 81.2 per cent.

The colleges are opening, generally with increased registrations, several reporting the largest number of students in their history.

RIGID RESTRICTIONS FOR AUTOMOBILISTS.

[H. H. Windsor, in Popular Mechanics.]

Owners of automobiles throughout the country are rapidly bringing upon themselves some rigid restrictions which they will not enjoy. Reform legislation is always slow in coming, and for that reason generally goes farther than is necessary. It seems to be a case of the breaking loose of pent up waters. The annoyances referred to are the unnecessary use of horns, whistles and exhaust. Many drivers seem to have a mania for making all the noise they can, lest some should fail to realize they are in a moving car. The smoke nuisance is, equally unnecessary and offensive, and that it also can be prevented is demonstrated in nearly all European cities where heavy fines are imposed for violation. The result is a smoking car is seldom seen, for other drivers immediately call attention of the offender to his car.

The motorcycle is even more offensive in its noise making. This, too, is equally unnecessary. The motorcycle in England make no more noise than a sewing machine. The public has about reached its limit of endurance of these disturbances of the peace, and unless the offenders promptly reform themselves, city ordinances should and will be passed and enforced without regard to who the offender may be. This is an instance where a 10 or 20-dollar fine will work a prompt and permanent cure.

STILL DEGENERATING.

[Boston Transcript.]

That peculiarly unfortunate fraction of the human race dwelling in the United States is degenerating again. "Again," because only a few weeks ago the mental and physical degeneration of Americans due to consumption of sugar had become so pronounced that it was perceptible to one professor in a western college. Now another learned scientist has startled the world by the declaration that unless the Americans sign a national pledge of total abstinence from baked beans and mince pie, physical, mental and moral collapse will speedily overtake them. Dr. Turck, for he it is who sends forth this solemn warning, thinks the eleventh hour is about to strike, and no time is to be lost in instituting reform. If reform does not come, if the race does not all at once, individually and collectively, refrain from looking upon the beans that smoke upon the board and the mince that is minced in the pie, Dr. Turck must avert his eyes from the future to avoid seeing the ruin of his country. As a patriot he would fain not witness a great race falling with the falling state, and all because it would eat beans and mince pie.

THE ENGLISH SUMMER GIRL.

"For some weeks past we have enjoyed the presence of summer visitors. But who devises their clothing?" writes the Vicar of Carisbrooke, Isle of Wight, in his parish magazine. He continues: "We can remember a time when the English girl was a most attractive creature. Look at Leech's pictures in the old numbers of 'Punch'—pretty, tasteful and bright, they were a pleasure to look at.

"But the 1910 female seems either to be wrapped up in a bundle of rags, with the least clean one spread over her hat and tied under her chin, or else she discards as much of her clothing as she can—leaves her hat at home and gets her head full of dust; exposes her chest to every wind that blows, displays ankles that show the solidity of her understanding, runs about the island half-clad, crumpled and dust-laden. Is it to convey an impression that they have all traveled in motors?

"But the motorist deserves a line to himself. He represents the last arrogance of wealth. He comes hooting, squeaking, bellowing, tinkling, roaring or whistling with a piercing scream to tell everybody to get out of the way."

AROUND RHODE ISLAND

Committee to Inform New Bishop of His Election.

Movement for Senator Mowry of South Kingstown for the Congressional Movement.

A committee representing the diocese of Rhode Island will go to New Haven Monday to give to Rev. James DeWolf Perry, Jr., official notification of his selection as bishop. The committee comprises Rev. Lester Bradner, Jr., and Rev. Frederick J. Bassett of Providence, Rev. Stanley C. Hughes and George Gordon King of this city Rathbone Gardner and William Gammell of Providence. Besides bearing official notification to Rev. Mr. Perry of his choice as the head of the diocese, the committee will also probably learn whether or not the bishop-elect is willing to accept the honor bestowed by the church. Rev. Mr. Perry said Thursday that he would probably be able to decide by Monday. Rev. Mr. Parkess, assistant to Rev. Mr. Perry, expressed the opinion that, while Mr. Perry of course would have the call under serious consideration, owing to the high responsibility of accepting it, he knew of no reason why Mr. Perry could not accept. He said he believed that ultimately Mr. Perry would accept the call. He believes, also, that the parishioners of St. Paul's, while they would lose Mr. Perry with regret, would appreciate the high honor conferred upon him and consider his acceptance favorably for that reason.

There is a movement on foot in the southern part of the state favoring the nomination of Senator Sumner Mowry of South Kingstown for Congressman in the Second district at the Democratic convention next week. It is believed that the candidacy of Senator Mowry will become an important factor in the convention. His friends, not only in the southern part of the state, but other sections as well believe that he would make a strong candidate against Congressman Capron, or any other Republican who might be named, and with that belief they are quietly canvassing the district. It is known that Senator Mowry is not personally seeking the nomination and just what his attitude will be has not been made known, but his friends believe that if the convention should select him as the candidate, he would not decline. Senator Mowry has been a prominent figure in the senate on the minority side during his four years service, and has attracted favorable attention. He was the first Democrat to be elected to the senate from South Kingstown in many years, and has always polled a large vote. He was for 20 years principal of the South Kingstown high school, retiring some years ago to enter business. He has served more than 20 years on the school committee of that town, and a number of years as town moderator and tax assessor. For years he has been prominent in the Odd Fellows, having served as grand master of Rhode Island and as grand representative. He is especially popular throughout South County, and it is believed that he would receive practically every vote from the several towns of that country in the Congressional convention, an important factor in the nomination.

It is said to be likely that the matter of accepting the nominations made for members of the General Assembly by the Prohibition party by convention or caucus will go before the courts for settlement. Through conflicting provisions in the election laws concerning the rights of political parties to make nominations by conventions and caucuses, some doubt as to the legality of such nominations in the newly created Representative districts of the state is held by politicians. Secretary of State Parker will accept all nominations made by the Prohibition party in the Representative districts of the entire state, acting upon the opinion of Attorney General Greenough. Politicians, however, say they will make opposition to such acceptance, basing their action upon one of the two conflicting paragraphs in the statutes. The attorney general bases his opinion, he says, upon the other and more general provision.

With the opening of the East Greenwich Academy Wednesday the prosperity which was shown last April was far surpassed. President Samuel W. Irwin and William L. Stidger, vice president of the faculty, who took charge of the institution at that time, apparently have proved capable of performing the duties imposed upon them, and through their efforts the registration has surpassed expectations. The first year class is nearly double the number of the entire school last spring. At the chapel exercises President Irwin spoke of the ideals of the institution and the place it occupies in the hearts and lives of men and women who helped to build it. Applause accompanied the introduction and responses of the various members of the faculty. During the summer vacation an industrial department was added to the school under the management of Henry H. Curtiss, financial secretary, in which the boys and the girls who have not sufficient funds to pay their tuition and board will be given an opportunity to earn their own way independently through school. The faculty has been strengthened in its music department by the addition of Professor Samuel MacWaters who is to spend two days a week in the vocal department. He is at present on the faculty of Boston University, having held that position for 16 years. He was a student in England, France, Germany and Italy, being in Italy a pupil of Vanchini.

The Italian-speaking residents of the Eagle Park district, Providence, will begin Saturday morning a three days' festival in honor of St. Lucia. The Societa Santa Lucia will have charge of the demonstration. At 5:45 the celebration will begin with a salute of 10 bombs, followed by another salute at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and still another at 6 o'clock in the evening. At 7 o'clock a band concert will be given by the Bersaglieri Band of Natick. On the following morning a parade will be held, the committee and Bersaglieri Band heading the line, followed by young girls dressed in white and also by the members of the Societa Santa Lucia. The marchers will move through the principal streets of the Eagle Park section, and later will attend services in St. Ann's Church. Rev. Father Bove, pastor of the church, will deliver a sermon. Band concerts will be given in the afternoon and evening. Monday evening the celebration will be concluded with a concert by the Bersaglieri Band and a display of fireworks at Harris's grove.

The First Baptist Church of Westerly will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary Sunday, when Dr. W. A. Hillary will deliver an historical address at the morning service. Presidence Faunce of Brown University will speak at the evening service. Special music will be a feature of the various services of the day. A widespread interest has been manifested in the celebration at the church's seventy-fifth anniversary and many Baptists from other towns are expected to attend and aid the members of the local organization in fittingly observing the occasion.

THE "SUN DRAWING WATER."

[St. Nicholas.]

The phenomenon commonly known as the "sun drawing water" is due to rays of sunlight between the shadows of clouds. It is seen to best advantage when the atmosphere is somewhat hazy, and when the sun is wholly or partly behind a cloud, and it is not in the higher part of the sky. Patchy strato-cumulus clouds are most favorable for the formation of these rays, and they are probably most distinct when seen in the part of the sky below the sun, when they appear to extend either directly or somewhat obliquely downward; it is in this form that the effect is most commonly called the "sun drawing water." But such rays may extend in any direction, so that they diverge from the sun as a center. No rain need be falling anywhere near the observer, though it is not impossible for the rays to be visible at a time when rain-streaks also are visible in part of the sky; the rain-streaks, however, do not diverge from the sun, but are in lines of the falling rain.

A WOODEN BALLOON.

[London Globe.]

Many things have happened since the time of the Montgolfiers, and perhaps the most remarkable of all is the invention of a German engineer, Herr Rettig. Instead of having for the envelope of his balloon silk or goldbeaters' skin he has adopted wood. The new aerostat is 120 metres long, with a diameter of 16 metres. It has also two motors. The wood used in the construction of the envelope is Canadian pine. Herr Rettig claims that he will effect a saving of gas to an enormous extent, that his envelope will not be affected by the sun's rays, since wood is a bad conductor of heat. He says that his envelope will hold the gas for weeks and that he will reach considerable altitudes. Herr Retteg declares that he has solved the problm of long distance; for instance, he will be able to cross the Atlantic

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, Sept. 23, 8 A. M.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Unsettled probably with showers late tonight or Saturday, light to moderate variable winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Much cloudy, unsettled weather prevails in the northern and central districts of the country, but in the South and West it is fair, and generally clear. The high pressure area which yesterday covered the Lake region has moved eastward and now extends along the Atlantic coast from New Jersey to New Brunswick, with barometer near 30.3 inches. Another high pressure area has descended from the Canadian northwest and is central at Winnipeg, Manitoba. In New England the temperature is rising rapidly with the prevailing southwest wind this morning. In most other districts the temperature is near the normal. In New England the minimum during last night ranged from 30 at Greenville, Maine, and Northfield, Vt., to 52 at Block Island. Heavy frosts occurred in the northern and interior district. In New York at 8 a. m. it was 60, Washington 60, New Orleans 76, Chicago 64, Denver 60, San Francisco 50 and Portland, Ore., 58.

MUST MOVE WHEN TOLD.

Chauffeur Fined for Standing on the Street Longer Than Ten Minutes.

At the regular session of the district court this morning John E. Mullally withdrew his plea of not guilty, entered a plea of nolo and was fined $10 and costs, $16.20 in all. At the police station a man paid a fine of $25 and costs, $28.80, for assault. A chauffeur was fined $2 and costs for standing on the street more than 10 minutes. Two drunks were fined, but the police, afterward found no money on them. R. Kelley was sent to the reform school during his minority.

The chauffeur was arrested, not for the sake of the fine, but simply to show that there is some authority on the streets. He was in front of the Opera House Thursday night and was told to move on. He did not move; he felt the independence of an American citizen and asserted it. He was not going to be bulldozed by any minion of the law in the form of a policeman, but he reached the court this morning. He could not see why he could not stand on the public streets, but the judge gave him the law in regard to obstructions. Not only can he not stand more than 10 minutes, but if ordered to move by an officer in the discharge of his duty he must move, though he has only just ceased to move. He must be on the move whenever it is deemed for the best interests of the community. Thursday night there were a few traps in the vicinity of the Opera House, and if all stood still there would have been a blockade. This law applies to all vehicles, public and private; they can all be moved.

Young Kelley had been on probation for breaking into a shop and was apprehended as probably the one who was discovered breaking into the residence of Mr. Max Levy. Of course he did not know it was the home of a lawyer, or that there was some one there whom he was likely to disturb, but such was the case and Kelley was seen and reported to the police. The description seemed to fit Kelley, and the latter on his record fitted the case, and Inspector Tobin brought him in. He was the boy. He will make no more attempts on a lawyer—not right away.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Schooner yacht Constellation has sailed for Boston.

—Mr. J. B. F. Smith, who has been ill, is able to be out.

—Inspectors Wilcox and Potter are re-inspecting ferryboat Newport.

—Mr. Louis B. McCagg of New York is visiting Miss C. Ogden Jones at Ochre Point.

—Mr. Andrew J. Carroll of Montreal, formerly of this city, is here on a short visit to relatives.

—DeBlois & Eldridge have rented for the estate of Charles W. Shields the cottage at Ochre Point, known as "Nethercliff," to Craig Biddle of Philadelphia, for the season of 1911.

—Dr. W. W. Marvel, Jr., of Fall River, formerly of this city, read a paper on "Inlays for Bridge Abutments" at the meeting of the Dental Society in New Bedford Wednesday.

—Steamer New Shoreham left Thursday night for Providence, repairs having been completed to her air pump at the repair shops, and this morning resumed her place on the Block Island line.

—William Loftus has rented for the estate of James A. Hammett the upper tenement at 15 Whitehall street to Mr. Clarke, and for George L. Merrill the tenement at 122 Prospect Hill street, to George Chase.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Bacheller, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Peckham and the Misses Peckham, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Wright and Mr. A. Russell Manchester will leave next Monday to spend a week at Miskiana Lodge.

—F. W. Greene sold at auction this noon the Norman Whitney stable on Wanton street to Herbert L. Dyer, for $786, after some sharp competition. It is understood that Mr. Dyer bought it for Landers & Peckham.

—The report that "Rattlesnake" Jim, from Tiverton, would have an exhibit of two big rattlesnakes at the Newport County Fair did not eventuate. There was plenty to see besides rattlesnakes, and people did not lose much.

—There is a horsechestnut tree on Mary street and Horgan court which is putting out its second crop of leaves and blossoms. The first output was eaten by the tussock moth, and after that nature came to the aid of the tree with a second crop.

—Rear Admiral Nicholson, U. S. N., chief of the bureau of navigation, officially denies the report that the Naval War College is to be removed from Newport to Washington. The report had previously been denied by the officials of the college.

—The Atlantic Trapping Company had one horse mackerel, of 450 pounds, Thursday. F. W. Lawton had 8 barrels this morning, of mixed fish. Things are so quiet today on the dock that even the fish agents are missing, having taken to the loft, where the sun shines in.

—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Blake, Miss Mabel Wilber and H. Bosler of New York; Mr. and Mrs. N. Burgin and E. Springford of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. J. Thonley of Wollaston, Mass., G. W. K. Voight of Philadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. Diehl of Ambler, Pa., are registered at the Perry House.

—It appears that the freight train which participated in the mix-up near Bridge street Wednesday evening had been in another at Fall River, before starting for Newport. The tender left the tracks and it required an hour and a half to put it back. Another engine was substituted and the train started for Newport, only ten minutes late.

—A special train arrived this morning at 10:30 and left at 11:40, with an official party on a tour of inspection. In the party was General Superintendent B. R. Pollock, who is seldom seen in these districts; Superintendent A. Ross, of the Old Colony division; J. O. Halliday, master of transportation, and Train Despatcher R. T. Cronin. They made a short inspection of the company's plant here.

—There was an automobile accident on Touro street, at High, Thursday afternoon about 5 o'clock. A small boy and an automobile going up the hill came together. Just how it happened is not definitely stated, but the lad was tossed and the man in the machine at once jumped out and picked him up. He was taken into the home of Dr. Brackett, and escaped with a shake-up.

—Men are at work on the bowling alleys at the Young Men's Christian Association, putting them in condition for the winter. The runs, gutters and returns are to be thoroughly repaired or renewed and the alleys put in the best condition. Bowling in former years has been a favorite sport among the members and it is expected that the interest will be renewed this year.

GENERAL CHARLES R BRAYTON DEAD.

and endanger his prospects of election, and for that reason only, he, the general, would find quarters elsewhere.

Governor Higgins's victory over the general, if it was a victory, was only temporary, for as soon as the elections were over General Brayton appeared at the State House. Following the death of Hunter C. White, high sheriff of Providence county, General Brayton's political ally, the general had made his headquarters at the capitol, in the room of the executive committee on corporations.

General Brayton's great political strength lay in his ability to control the small towns. In the cities his power was so slight as to be really negligible. Under teh laws of Rhode Island each town has the same representation in the state senate which the largest city is allowed. Thus West Greenwich, with only a corporal's guard of voters, elects ben senator every year, while the city of Providence, with nearly 225,000 population, has no greater representation in the senate. General Brayton kept closely informed of conditions in teh towns and villages and was always able to control enough votes in the small communities to secure the election of his candidates to the legislature.

Although suffering from blindness for many years, General Brayton never lost his grip on politics and at his death was practically as powerful as he was a decade ago. An incident which shows his political influence occurred recently, for when United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich decided that he would not attempt to return to the upper branch of the federal Congress it was General Brayton who made the announcement of the Senator's decision.

Mercilessly criticised and attacked by his enemies, General Brayton was always as stoutly defended by his friends and both friends and enemies united in saying that he never broke his word. When he said that he would do a thing he always did it if it was within his power to do so, according to those who either opposed him or supported him.

MASTER MIND AND BIG HEART.

Governor Pothier Speaks of Brayton's Foresight and Insight.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 23.—Governor Pothier, in commenting upon the death of General Brayton today, said:

"The sudden removal from public life of so conspicuous a figure as General Brayton, the impress of whose influence has been left upon important activities, business and political life in this state for more than a generation, must occasion widespread regret and owed success to his counsel and associates and the sense of personal loss experienced by those who have owed success to his counsel and assistance are coupled with a distinct shock to the political world, which although aware of his illness, was unprepared for the news of his death. His adherents and his critics alike will unite in a tribute to the masterful mind and big heart of the man whose foresight and insight held the devotion of the former and commanded the respect of the latter."

EXPERIMENTS IN IRRIGATION.

Work in Western States Being Done by Agricultural Department.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 23.—Every drop of surface water capable of use for irrigation is already appropriated, in the opinion of all the experts who read papers at a conference on irrigation yesterday. The conference was arranged by the Department of Agriculture. Supplies from other sources than running streams must be looked to for future use, the experts declared. In the meantime new reclamation projects should be held in abeyance. In line with the view of conditions, experiments are making indifferent regions as to the feasibility of pumping water from great depths. In Kansas, Washington, California and New Mexico these experiments are carried on under direction of representatives from the federal Agricultural Department.

COPY AMERICAN SHOES.

Foreign Market for Footwear Liable to Become Restricted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The foreign market for American made shoes is liable to become more restricted, because European shoe manufacturers are gradually supplying the characteristics of American shoes, according to Consul Johnson of Liege of Belgium. The finely finished shoe manufactured in this country, is said to be no longer a close rival in popular favor with the United Kingdom's shoes, which are noted for their durability.

AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Boys' Cabinet Organizes for the Year and a Working Boys' Club Formed.

The cabinet of the boys' department of the Young Men's Christian Association has been organized for the year with the selection of the following officers and chairmen of committees:

Secretary—Stanley A. Ward.
Chairman of Social Committee—Arthur Spicers.
Chairman of Physical Committee—George Sullivan.
Chairman of Rooms Committee—Arvod Westerdahl.
Chairman of Outdoor Committee—Morton Lee.
Chairman of Bible Clubs—Lewis Plummer.
Chairman of Boys' Meetings—Stanley A. Ward.
Chairman of Extension Committee William Leys, Jr.
Chairman of Games Committee—Lloyd Robbins.

The cabinet will hold its first meeting of the year next Tuesday evening.

A club has recently been formed among the working boys of the department, with 17 members. The organization is known as the Working Boys' Club and its object is to create a wider interest in the Association among the working boys of the city. The officers are as follows:

President—Julian Johnson.
Vice President—George Rodde.
Chaplain—E. L. Jackson.
Secretary—Henry Brade.
Treasurer—Fred H. Groff.

A constitution and by-laws have been adopted and meetings will be held Thursday evenings after the working boys' gymnasium class. Light refreshments will be served by a committee of members, there will be a short literary program and the remainder of the evening will be devoted to games, the larger boys' room being reserved for the club on those evenings.

DRIVEN BY MR. VOIGT.

Wagon Decorated With Cornstalks Takes Two Prizes at the Newport County Fair.

The draught horse competition at the Newport County Fair Thursday was an attraction for many others than those who would seem to be directly interested, and quite a number from Newport were spectators. Ernst Voigt had a wagon representing "Maple Hurst Farm," and before the competition began it received respectful consideration. It was decorated with cornstalks, each with ears of corn showing, measuring a foot in length, with the ears filled out to the very end of the round, and with nothing that looked like small kernels in sight. It was the real thing in corn and it was grown in Middletown.

Mr. Voigt, driving his horses himself, made a pretty showing. His blacks caught the popular eye ahead of the grays and dapple grays of the "Oakland Farm" and Coal Mines exhibits. He took first in the pair and third in the fours, shown to light carts for action and appearance as well as pull b ietnaps grofficifgnlbbo well as pulling powers.

ACCIDENT IN EAST RIVER.

Steamer Priscilla Capsizes Gasoline Launch, But All the Occupants Were Saved.

While gasoline launch Eva, owned by Rev. Dr. A. S. Biddle and his son, A. C. Biddle of Jersey City, was being taken up the East river by the clergyman's son Thursday evening, with Policeman John H. Weiss, who was planning to buy the launch, his son, Wentworth Weiss, Weiss's cousin, Frederick James and James Biddle of Jersey City as passengers, the engine suddenly went dead just off Clason Point.

Suddenly Fall River line steamer Priscilla, bound up stream to the Sound, swept swiftly toward the small boat. Before the occupants of the launch noticed her the large steamer was directly upon them. Cries of warning came from the boatmen on the now distant shore but it was too late.

The steamer shot to starboard of the little launch, but the overhang struck the top of the cabin, splintering it and capsizing the launch. The 35-foot boat was tossed like a feather out 20 feet from the steamer and its five occupants spilled into the water.

Immediately several boats put out to the rescue. Foremost among them was Cornelius Quinn, owner of a boathouse at Clason Point, who soon reached the five men who were foundering in the water. The Priscilla which had stopped after the accident and prepared to lower a boat, continued up stream seeing the men were all saved.

RECEPTION TO PHYSICAL DIRECTOR SLOCUM.

Mr. Philip H. Slocum, the new physical director of the Young Men's Christian Association, arrived Thursday evening and has already commenced making plans for the work in the gymnasium, which will open October 1. This evening there will be an informal reception to Mr. Slocum in the men's lobby, under the direction of Social Secretary Stockwell. This will give an opportunity for the members to meet the new physical director and hear something of what he proposes to do in the gymnasium the coming winter. There will be no formal program, but it is expected that Mr. Slocum will speak briefly and that a number of the members of the board of directors will also have something to say.

JAMESTOWN.

(Regular correspondence of the News.)

Miss Schaffer, who has been guest of Miss Harriet Clarke on Beavertail road, has returned to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Poe and their son, who have been spending the season here, have returned to Baltimore.

Mr. C. W. Stork and family have closed the Elmer cottage at the Dumplings and left for Philadelphia.

The sidewalk on Water street, along the Bay View House front, is being re-built, the earth being carted away and a new filling of crushed stone, dug up in building the state road, put in.

Mrs. Du Barry and family, who have occupied Horgan cottage, No. 4, several summers, have closed their Jamestown season and left for Philadelphia.

The main on Union street burst Thursday night, and before the waterworks men were notified considerable water had gone to waste. The paved gutters saved Union street from being badly washed. The catch basins, however, were inadequate to carry off the water and it ran across Walcott avenue, badly washing the macadam roadbed. After crossing Walcott avenue the water went down Ferry wharf, depositing a quantity of sand and mud before it found its way overboard.

RETURN OF "THE MERRY WIDOW."

"The Merry Widow" was given its third presentation in Newport at the Opera House Thursday evening, before a large and enthusiastic audience. The company was in many respects the best seen here in the opera. Mabel Wilber was a charming Sonia and sang her numbers in a way which pleased everybody. Her dancing also was good. Charles Meakin as Prince Danilo gave an enjoyable presentation of the character, acting and singing the part well, and appearing to excellent advantage in the garden scene, dancing with Sonia, R. E. Graham as Popoff and Fred Frear as Nisa furnished the comedy element, making it real comedy and not farce, while Ivy Scott as Madame Popoff and Harold Blake as de Jolidon were satisfactory. The chorus was well balanced and well trained, singing the concerted numbers in unison and good effect. The stage settings were elaborate and realistic.

ALL PASSENGERS REMOVED.

Steamer Mt. Washington Aground on Lake Winnipesaukee.

CENTER HARBOR, N. H., Sept. 23—Steamer Mt. Washington, owned by the Boston & Maine Railroad, which plies between the principal ports on Lake Winnipesaukee, ran aground today on One Mile Island, a mile off Centre Harbor. The shock was so slight that the passengers on board the steamer were not aware that she had grounded until they inquired the cause of her stopping. Later the passengers were removed in smaller steamers and motor boats.

The bottom is rocky at the point where the vessel went ashore, but it was believed that she could be floated with little damage before night, with the assistance of other vessels. The cause of the mishap is supposed to have been the unusual lowness of the water in the lake, the steamer channels having grown steadily shallower throughout the summer.

THE CAUSES OF THE UNREST IN INDIA.

The replies of the Indian native rulers in response to the viceroy's request for their opinions concerning the cause of the existing unrest in India make interesting reading. The writers are practically unanimous in recognizing the reality of the danger. The close connection between religious revivalism and anarchial sedition is emphasized by a Hindu ruler, the Rajah of Ratlam, who vigorously condemns the priest in politics, and declares that the new religion deserves to be treated like thuggism and suttee. The suggestions and recommendation mainly deal with the means of checking the license of the Indian press; but several of the chiefs hold the divorce of secular instruction from religious and moral training responsible for much of the present mischief, and recommend the extension of the residential system and greater care in the selection of teachers. The uniformity of these opinions and suggestions contributed materially to the enactment of the Indian Press bill of February, and also directed attention to the urgency of the educational problem. They have provoked violent remonstrances from the extremists, who accuse the native rulers of despotism and obscurantism.

THE "CHURCH BOAT" OF SWEDEN.

[Wide World Magazine.]

The "church boat" is a popular institution in Sweden. It brings families to service from the farms around Lake Siljan to Leksand. The water route is the nearest and most convenient, and so the big boat goes from farm to farm along the shore picking up the churchgoers, who later return by the same route.

HEAD OF MASONS QUITS.

Reason for General Lawrence's Resignation Profound Secret.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 22.—Announcement of the resignation of General Samuel Crocker Lawrence of Medford, Mass., most puissant grand commander, was the climax of a long session of the Supreme Council, Sovereign Grand Inspectors General of the 33d and last degree, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the United States, tonight. Barton Smith of Toledo, grand lieutenant commander, succeeded him by virtue of the custom in the council. The reason for General Lawrence's resignation from the highest office in Masonry, of which he held a life tenure, is guarded as a profound secret.

The following honorary members were advanced from that position to that of voting membership on the active list: Thomas Kite, Cincinnati; Charles M. Gardenier, Bridgeport, Conn.; Leroy A. Goddard, Chicago; Charles C. Mumford, Providence.

The following were created honorary 33d degree Masons during the meeting of the Sovereign Grand Council: Henry Lincoln Ballou, Chester, Vt.; Frederick Irving Dana, Providence; Stephen S. Jewett, Laconia, N. H.; Ernest B. Moore, Medford, Mass.

HIT TARGETS AT SIX MILES.

Ranges One Fifth the Size of an Ordinary War Vessel Found Accurately by the Ships.

Eight of the 16 big battleships of the Atlantic fleet, forming the First squadron and headed by Rear Admiral Schroeder's flagship, the Connecticut, Wednesday, poppered four targets, each one-fifth the size of an ordinary warship, at a range greater than 10,000 yards, or more than six miles. The Delaware, one of the two American super-Dreadnoughts, cut away her target at the first salvo. The other ships of the fleet, including the Delaware's sister ship, the North Dakota, the Connecticut, Louisiana, Kansas, Michigan, New Hampshire and the South Carolina, also found the range accurately.

The ships fired in two divisions, the first going to work about 2 o'clock in the afternoon and the second starting just before sunset. The target fleets were towed in single file by one battleship, which was not shooting. Some of the shells dropped 600 feet astern and gave a realistic imitation of actual battle to those on board. After the signal to commence firing had been given the ships had 4½ minutes to fire. Nearly 500 shots, including 100 12-inch shells, were fired.

Norwegian fruit steamer Bolita, from Port Antonio for Philadelphia, appeared on the horizon midway between the first division and its target. The division was steaming toward her just before the warships began firing. The vessel did not change her course, and a few minutes after the firing had ceased the Bolita sailed down the lane between them. A Clyde Line steamer was the only other ship sailing in after the firing. No projectiles went near either vessel, however.

ROYAL RELATIONSHIPS.

Two of the Most Powerful Thrones in Europe Occupied by Cousins of English King.

[London Answers.]

In earlier days it was always the object of each reigning monarch to marry his sons or his daughters to the children of neighboring rulers. In this way he could, or believed he could, secure peace for his people. If today it were impossible for two countries whose ruling houses were related to quarrel Europe at large might literally turn the sword into a plowshare, for if we except Turkey and Italy there is absolutely no other ruling family upon the continent of any importance with whom George V is not allied by ties of blood.

Two of the most powerful thrones in Europe are occupied by first cousins of our king. The mother of Kaiser Wilhelm was King Edward's sister, while the mother of the Czar Nicholas of Russia is sister of Queen Alexandra.

Denmark, being the original home of Queen Alexandra, is the country with which our royal house has become closely linked, and the alliance was further strengthened by the marriage of the king's sister Maud to the Danish prince who is now King Haakon of Norway.

The marriage of young Alfonso of Spain with the daughter of Princess Beatrice created a close link between the two countries and placed a royal crown upon the head of another cousin of the king.

The czarina, as well as her august husband, is a cousin of our king. She was Alix Victoria, youngest daughter of the late Princess Alice, and is therefore a first cousin of the occupant of the British throne. The family likeness between the czar and King George is very strong, and the two are excellent friends.

Another country the throne of which will in all human probability be occupied by two first cousins of our king is Greece. The present King George of Greece, who was elected king by the Greek national assembly in 1863, is a brother of the Queen Mother Alexandra, and is therefore uncle of our present king. His eldest son, the Duke of Sparta, heir apparent to the throne of Greece, married the Princess Sophia, youngest sister of the German emperor and also a cousin of the monarch.

King George V is also connected, although not so closely, with the reigning families both of Belgium and Holland. The Belgian royal family is related to the Saxe-Coburg-Gotha house, of which the late prince consort was a member, and the late King Leopold was a second cousin of King Edward VII.

The Queen of Holland is not credited with particularly kindly feelings toward this country. During the Boer war her sympathies were rather with the Boers than ourselves. Nevertheless she is fairly closely connected with our reigning house, for the Duchess of Albany is daughter of the late Prince George of Waldeck, and therefore aunt of Queen Wilhelmina.

It is a curious fact and difficult to believe that the present heir to the throne of little Roumania has as far as descent goes actually a better title to the British throne than any member of our own royal family. Young Prince Carol of Roumania, who is now just seventeen, is directly descended from Henrietta, youngest daughter of Charles I. The line runs through Louis XV of France, Princess Charlotte of Spain, Pedro IV of Portugal and so down to King Ferdinand, who married Princess Marie, granddaughter of Queen Victoria and cousin of King George V.

NAVAL NOTES.

Upon the completion of the target practice off the Capes of the Chesapeake, about September 25, the vessels of the Atlantic fleet, except the North Dakota, will proceed to New York for a stay of about 10 days to give liberty. The North Dakota will proceed direct to the Norfolk yard for docking, and thence to New York to give liberty.

It is announced at the Navy Department that collier Marcellus, which was sunk while in collision with steamer Rosario di Gorgio August 9, has been stricken from the navy list. There is no hope of being able to raise the collier. The Rosario di Gorgio, which is owned in New York, was libelled as a consequence of the accident.

The Des Moines has been temporarily detached from duty on the west coast of Africa and has been ordered to proceed to Gibraltar for stores, and thence for a short cruise in the Mediterranean.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. Henry Biesel is visiting in New York.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Carter have closed their cottage.

—Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Jay will sail for Europe October 8.

—Mrs. Robert Sedgwick, who has been visiting here, has returned to New York.

—Mrs. Ogden Goelet and Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt are at the Hotel St. Regis, New York.

—Rear Admiral W. T. Swinburne, U. S. N. (retired), who recently returned from Europe, is in town.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Baldwin of Colorado are visiting Mrs. C. H. Baldwin at "Snug Harbor."

—Among the departures today were Mrs. Van Nest and family and Mrs. John E. Kane and family.

—Mrs. Edward P. Lake and Mrs. F. Biesel Thomass have returned from Gettysburg and other places.

—Countess Anne Leary has gone to New York and has closed "Park Gate." She had been here only two weeks.

—Mrs. William H. Leeds is at the Plaza Hotel, New York, visiting her sister, Mrs. John Patterson Duncan.

—Mr. T. S. Morgan, Mr. Edward M. Dwight, guest of Mr. E. C. Knight, Jr.; Mr. J. S. Brown and Miss McCagg are registered at the Casino.

—Miss Louise Coggeshall, daughter of the late Mayor Thomas Coggeshall, who has been here to visit relatives, has returned to New York.

—M. Blodeck, W. J. Clarke and M. Weber of Boston; E. D. Collins of Philadelphia, and J. A. McLaught of Rutland, Vt., are registered at the United States Hotel.

—Postmaster and Mrs. Albert C. Landers have gone to Richmond, Va., where the former will attend the annual convention of the National Postmasters' Association.

—Mrs. Willard S. Brown, who was taken suddenly ill on the eve of her departure for New York last week, has been taken to the hospital and successfully operated upon.

—The schools of Tiverton, Portsmouth and Middletown each have a half-holiday today, on account of the Newport County Fair, and not a few Newport scholars took a half-holiday, that they too might be in attendance.

—Mrs. Ellen Friend is visiting Mr. George W. Albro, in Parlin, N. J. Mrs. Friend is a great-aunt of Mr. Albro and is in her ninety-first year. Miss Gertrude Frank is also visiting her uncle, Mr. Albro, in Parlin, N. J.

—The work of grading the Nurses' Home grounds has been begun. The place has looked rather wild all summer, but now that the Peckham house on Powel avenue has been cleared away there is room for the surplus earth, and thus two necessities are provided for in one effort.

—Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Marie Winthrop, daughter of the late Buchanan Winthrop, to Mr. Morris W. Kellogg, of New York. Miss Winthrop is the sister of Mr. Henry Rogers Winthrop. Mr. Kellogg was graduated from the Stevens Institute of Hoboken. No date has been mentioned for the wedding.

—The digging of footings for the piers and basement walls at the new Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association is still in progress, but no work on putting in these footings has yet been done. The engineers are still figuring leads to be carried and the needs in meeting these loads on the different strata found below the surface.

—The hoisting englnt has arrived at the new Colonial theatre and this permits the raising into position of the big derrick, to sling the steel trusses into place high on the walls. Until some of these are up to provide a tie, the work on the walls of the stage enclosure will be held back, for they are now pretty high. Bricklayers started this morning on the south wall of the head building on Thames street.

—Rev. T. Calvin McClelland, Ph. D., formerly pastor of the United Congregational Church of this city and now of the Memorial Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, returned from Europe on the Teutonic, which reached New York Wednesday. Dr. McClelland said he had spent four months abroad, chiefly in Glasgow and Paisley, Scotland, where he had been impressed by the growth in the popularity of the policy of tariff protection. He said labor conditions over there has reached a critical stage through the shipbuilding lockouts.

THE REAL TEST

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigors may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?

No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

A THOUSAND AEROPLANES.

Army and Navy Enthusiastic Over Big Airship Reserve.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—John Barry Ryan, son of Thomas F. Ryan, the New York multi-millionaire, spent today in the War and Navy Departments and succeeded in driving the officials into a state of enthusiasm over the proposition to provide the army and navy with a fleet of airships that would augment tremendously the offensive and defensive powers of the twin services.

The attractive feature of Mr. Ryan's proposition was its economical side; he did not ask a dollar of government money on return for the creation of a reserve of about 1,000 aeroplanes that might be called into immediate service by the government in time of need. What he did desire was the moral support of the two departments in the creation of the "aeronautical reserve," and this was promised to him.

The idea is to have an officer detailed from each branch of the service to act with the aeronautical reserve in an advisory capacity and to assist in the organization of the reserve on military lines. Regular plans for campaign are to be mapped out and there will be manoeuvres and drills to prepare for actual warfare.

Next Convention of Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 22.—Indianapolis was selected today as the next convention city by the Sovereign Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

At the morning session of the Grand Lodge the report of a special committee recommending the erection and maintenance by the organization of a tuberculosis sanatorium was rejected.

A motion to limit the membership of Rebekah lodges to the wives, daughters, sisters and mothers of Odd Fellows and the widows of deceased Odd Fellows also was defeated.

THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

the treasury was low, he cheerfully paid for the extra assistance. I think the sum taken from the treasury each year for this purpose would not exceed $75, and some years it was less; except the two years during which Mr. Barber was paid $20 per month.

In regard to clerical hire and other assistance in carrying on the work of the society: From time to time, during the past few years, an occasional sum of money has been given to the society for special work in indexing or arranging the society's collections, and for this money, my father often employed Miss Katharine Stevens, who was here indexing the old town records from the city's appropriations. In November, 1906, the work of the society had grown to such an extent that a regular clerk became necessary. In my father's capacity as State Record Commissioner, he employed Miss Bloomfield to work for a certain number of hours, for which she was of course paid by the state, and the rest of the time (by far the larger part), she was engaged in arranging papers, indexing, cataloguing, and doing whatever work was necessary or requested by the members, at whose service she was held. As there has never seemed sufficient money in the treasury to pay the $10 per month which she received for this part of her work, my father advanced it from the beginning, November, 1906, until his death, since which time I have advanced it up to this day. I regret to say that in the future there will be little or no work done for the state in Newport, and I cannot continue the terms which my father made with Miss Bloomfield, but if the society could afford to pay her (and I do not see how you could do without her), a more faithful or more efficient clerk could not be found. My own services to the society, in whatever kind of work, have been freely and gladly given, from the time I graduated from school until my father's death. Everything he did for the society was a pleasure to him, and everything I could do for him was a joy to me.

The expense of the telephone, which was placed in the building in April, 1902, has been borne by your librarian. I do not feel that I can continue this, but have ordered the service to be discontinued October first, up to which time the payment has been made. The telephone has been entirely at the service of the members, and it has been in constant use by outside people who are in the habit of applying here for information. I am sorry, too, that I have not the control of the typewriter, which is the property of the state and will be used in the future by the clerks at work on state records. This, too, has always been at the service of the members, and has been used for reports, notices, and in every way for the benefit of the Society.

In regard to membership: The society has about 100 taxable members, although several of these have been so long in arrears that I am not sure that I should count them in. Notices of dues are sent out regularly, and repeated at intervals. This year we have collected some outstanding dues, but there are many more, and at the request of the president, I am adding a list of those to this report. If the members would pay their dues, all the bills which I am also adding to this report at his request could have been paid up. I feel also that I ought to add that my father would have paid them this summer, after a number of members had paid their dues, but I persuaded him to draw his salary, making himself his first consideration at that time. I felt he ought to do that, while he was ill, and it was right for him to do so, as I was taking his place at the rooms, and in fact most of the work was being directed by him.

It has been the custom of several years to print and distribute the annual report, enclosing an invitation to join the society and thus help in the work. This year we sent out 200, and thereby obtained eight new members.

Just a word concerning my stewardship since my father's death. I felt unfit, mentally and physically, after the strain of my father's long illness, during which I attended to affairs here, to keep the rooms open after the first of September; but the absence from the city of several officers of the society has deferred the meeting until today, and although I promised to keep things going only until the first, I suppose I am held responsible. I have tried to carry everything on as usual, and, as far as I know, everything is in order, but I confess it is with relief that I now give up the care and responsibility of this building to the directors and members of the society, who it seems to me are the proper persons to have such a responsibility while you have neither librarian nor caretaker. I want to extend my grateful thanks to your corresponding secretary, Mr. Richardson, who alone of the directors (except of course my father, who worried all the time that he was ill because I had to be here without a caretaker) has realized the feeling of care and anxiety with which I opened and shut a public building every day, and with which I watched all the valuable possessions of the society, while attending to the various duties of the position. He has spent a great deal of time in the building, thus sharing voluntarily my responsibility.

Your president has asked me for suggestions, and one of your directors has told me that any suggestion I can make will be gladly considered. I hope you will be sure that it is not in a spirit of criticism that I do this but to help if I can to secure future prosperity to the society. I realize that you have a problem before you, and I think I know just what the solution of that problem is,—an increased interest on the part of every member, both individually and as a society. If you have the interest, it ought not be hard to raise sufficient money to carry on the work and take good care of the society's possessions. My father's love for the work and the society was an inspiration to him, and he gladly performed all the work that he was physically able to do, but in providing for a new librarian, ought you not consider the possibility that no other might be found who could even if he would, combine all the offices? And first may I urge that you provide for a regular janitor or caretaker, who should attend to the opening and closing of the building, the fires, etc., and who should be in attendance all day, to watch the collections? Since May, I have been attending to all these duties, with the help of Miss Bloomfield, and I think I ought to tell you that it is a mental and physical strain, since it is not easy to answer all the questions that are asked concerning historical matters, while one is wondering if the furnace is going, or if the cellar windows are locked, or if the people who might be visiting the museum are all right or perhaps ought to be watched. When one is finding books or records for visitors to the library, it is impossible to watch the rooms downstairs, and for years, I have brought even my personal letters here to answer, so that I might be in the building, to take some of this care off my father's shoulders. This summer we have kept the museum door locked except when visitors have been there also the vault door, even though we constantly opened and closed them, and I am sure everything is safe. A janitor in the building all the time would remove this care from the librarian, who could then give his best work and all his attention to the care of the library and all the work which he should carry on. Perhaps all of you know that early in the summer this building was entered, not through any carelessness on my part, I am sure, as the windows were pried open, and everything had been carefully closed and locked the night before. Nothing was injured but my father's desk, which was his personal property, but of course this has added to my feeling of responsibility.

The desk and rug in my father's room were his own, also many of the filing cases and other things which were needed from time to time to keep the place in order or facilitate work; and these things it gives me much pleasure to present to the society. They are not of great value, but were bought with the intention of helping the society, and of course have been in constant use.

In conclusion, may I present my name for membership in your society? I would wish to have my name enrolled on the books of the society in which my father's interest was centred, and for whose good he delighted to spend his time.

Respectfully submitted,
Edith May Tilley.

THE NEW RED CROSS SEALS.

Society Hopes to Raise "A Million for Tuberculosis" From Sale of Christmas Stamps.

"A million for tuberculosis" is the slogan of the 1910 Red Cross Christmas stamp campaign. The familiar little seals that are seen on letters at Christmas time have proved such a success that this year about 100,000,000 of them will probably be printed. Already 25,000,000 have been struck off and will soon be placed on sale.

The Red Cross has a new scheme this year for the sale of the seals. It will sell them to local associations, and these associations will receive 87½ per cent of the profits, the other 12½ per cent going to pay the expenses of getting them out. What is left will be divided equaly between the Red Cross and the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The stamps, which are of an attractive design this year, may be placed on the backs as well as the fronts of letters. The reason that the Red Cross desires to have them known as "seals" is that last year the dead letter office of the Postoffice was packed with missives bearing only the Red Cross stamps. Many ignorant persons and some not so ignorant believed that the seals prepaid postage. About 40,000,000 of them were printed last year, and the sum realized amounted to about $250,000.

Stamps of this character were used in Brooklyn and Boston as far back as 1862 in connection with the Civil War bazaars and fairs. They disappeared for a time, but Jacob Riis, finding them used in Norway in a tuberculosis campaign, wrote an article about them which induced the Delaware State Association to adopt them in 1907. About $3,000 was raised in three weeks in Delaware and Eastern Pennsylvania. They were first used nationally in 1908 and $135,000 was raised by the Red Cross.

Don't Accept Claims Here's a Guarantee

Don't take chances on Roofing, for you can now have roofing insurance.

J-M Regal Roofing is absolutely guaranteed against leaks due to defects in the roofing.

And that guarantee is as good as a government bond, for it's signed by the makers, a $3,000,000.00 company.

J-M Regal Roofing

is made entirely in the Regal people's own mills. They know the quality of every square inch of it. That's why they can guarantee it.

They make the wool felt—know that every inch of it is pure, long-fibred wool.

They refine and process their own asphalt—get it direct from Lake Trinidad. No man has yet found anything else half as good for waterproofing.

So here is a roofing that is proof against the broiling sun, against snow and rain, freezing and thawing, the oxygen in the air and the other things which so soon ruin other wool felt roofings. J-M REGAL ROOFING is also highly fire-resisting.

Samples are free; also an interesting book on roofing.

TO BURY THE WIRES.

petition was received and the accompanying resolution granting the petition was passed without opposition.

Applications were received from Norbet David for renewal of peddler's license and from Harry G. Christian for transfer of eating house license from Timothy Sullivan, and both were granted.

A communication was received from the Board of Firewards, notifying the aldermen that Substitute Hoseman George N. Buckhout had been nominated to be assistant foreman, and Substitute Hoseman A. W. Almy to be hoseman, both of No. 5 steam fire engine company. The board unanimously confirmed the selections.

From the committee on the Columbus Day parade, Alderman Mahoney reported that without assistance from his committee the various Italian societies had come together on the matter of a parade, and he was authorized to give an invitation to the mayor and aldermen to attend a banquet at 2:30 and join in the street parade at 8 o'clock October 12. Carriages would be at the City Hall at 7:45. The invitation was accepted.

Thomas R. Curtis, who has charge of the ambulance, reported that nothing had been done to the wagon in the three years the city has owned it. In his opinion it should be sent to a carriage painter and put in good condition. If this is done now it can be done for much less than it would cost some time later, as the paint is in good condition. He had an estimate of cost from a man who had offered to do the work at what seemed a reasonable price. The matter was referred to Alderman Leddy, with power to act.

Mr. Mahoney suggested that stoves would be necessary in the auxiliary voting places and Mayor Bayles said the houses would need to be fully equipped for use as voting places. A committee on equipment of voting places was accordingly created, and consists of Aldermen Shapley and Mahoney and City Clerk Fullerton. Alderman Mahoney suggested that the city clerk would do most of the work, and the rest of the board had suspected this.

It had been decided to adjourn before Alderman Mahoney was reminded that there was a committee on the dump, and it had a report. The committee with the street commissioner had visited the old dump on Marchant street and found that much filling in could be done, and had authorized its use for dumping. Later J. P. Sullivan had placed signs forbidding any dumping, but the garbage contractor had been notified that Mr. Sullivan had no claim on the place and his signs were to be disregarded.

Then the board adjourned.

INCREASED EARNING POWER.

Gross Receipts from Outside Properties of New Haven Railroad System Large Factor.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, measured from the standpoint of gross earnings, is only two thirds a railroad proposition, and the form of the annual report is in large measure responsible for the failure of the public to grasp the statistical diversity of New Haven's gross earnings. The railroad proper, for instance, earned in the fiscal year to June 30, $60,693,667, but the entire New Haven system in this same period earned, according to official figures, a total of $92,293,262, an addition of $31,599,585, or 52 per cent. In other words, of the total gross receipts of the system, 65 per cent was derived from operation of the New Haven railroad proper, while 35 per cent represents the gross receipts of outside companies, including not only the steamboat and trolley concerns, but the New York, Ontario & Western and Central New England railroads.

Strictly speaking, the New Haven is entitled to an equity in but 51 per cent of the gross earnings of the New York, Ontario & Western, and to less than 100 per cent of the gross receipts of the Central New England. Its trolley lines are practically owned absolutely, however, and the same statement holds true of the New Haven's marine lines.

In fact, the marine properties of the New Haven are not, properly speaking, outside acquisitions at all. For the most part they were established and put into operation years ago as adjuncts of the railroad and in point of ownership far antedate the later acquired New York, Ontario & Western and the trolley properties.

When President Mellen came to the New Haven road seven years ago the gross earnings of the entire system were about $50,000,000. Through a policy of persistent and intelligent expansion the earning power of this complicated system appears to have been increased almost 90 per cent in the short period of the present management.

The New Haven railroad has about $100,000,000 invested in outside properties, meaning steamboat, trolley and such smaller public service enterprises as are outside of the strict domain of railroading. This money is now earning at least 4 per cent net per annum and is constantly expanding in net earning power. It is also, of course, growing in gross earning power, and this is the encouraging feature of the situation.

At present this $100,000,000 is earning almost $20,000,000 of gross, or in the ratio of 1 to 5 of capital invested. This is a higher ratio than the railroad proper shows, but the railroad ratio of 1 to 4 is the product of years of development. In fact, there is good reason to believe that when Mr. Mellen has completed the welding of his properties the outside properties will be found to have a naturally greater gross earning power than the railroad lines.

GOING TO AUSTRALIA.

English Lawn Tennis Team Will Fulfil its Challenge for Davis International Cup.

The lawn tennis team of Great Britain will go to Australia and fulfil its challenge for the Davis international cup, according to a letter received from an American lawn tenis player in England. The letter is dated at the Cavendish Hotel, Eastbourne, September 13.

According to this letter A. H. Lowe and T. M. Mavrogordato are to make the trip to the antipodes. The two have been performing consistently. While the majority of the English players have little or no hope of their success in returning the cup to the British Isles, still there is the belief that representation should be made and the interest in the famous challenge cup kept alive.

Altogether English players are sorely disappointed that it has been found impossible to enlist the top ranking players for the matches this year. A. H. Lowe and Mavrogordato are hardly up to the first ten on the list. Still it seems that Anthony F. Wilding, the Australian, secured fair assurances while he was in England during the last summer that players would visit Australia for the cup matches, taking into account at that time the possible outcome of preliminary ties with the American visit. Therefore the British Isles is sending a team.

THROWN FROM MACHINE,

Robertson, Automobile Driver, Injured on Long Island Track.

MINEOLA, Long Island, Sept. 23.—George Robertson, the automobile driver, was injured, and Stephen Reynolds, a fellow rider, was slightly hurt today, when the new Benz car turned turtle after it struck the Massapequa curve at high speed. Robertson was picked up unconscious. His injuries are not serious.

He was going at an estimated rate of 70 miles an hour in the new Benz car, was going at an estimated rate of 70 miles an hour in the new Benz car, which he was to drive in the Vanderbilt cup race, a week from tomorrow, and while he was giving an initial trial out. When he struck the Massapequa curve, considered the most dangerous in the course, the car gave a jump, swerved from the course and was completely overturned. Robertson and Stephen Reynolds, a New York man, whom he was carrying as a passenger, were thrown 30 feet or more, clear of the wreckage. Both Robertson and Reynolds were unconscious when another car, which had been following two minutes behind them, came along and they were picked up. They were carried back to the grandstand and a physician was hastily summoned. Reynolds was found to be suffering from possible internal injuries. He was placed in an automobile and hurried to Manhattan.

A hasty examination on the spot caused the physicians to fear that Robertson's injuries were serious, if not fatal. He appeared to be suffering from a bad scalp wound, a sprained or fractured arm, concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries. At the Nassau Hospital, however, it appeared to the surgeons from their preliminary examination, that the automobilists's injuries might not be so serious as was at first feared. It was thought by those who looked over the ground after the accident that Robertson had attempted to take the dangerous curve at too high a speed. Both victims of the accident being unconscious, there was no one to tell whether anything had gone wrong with the mechanism. The spin Robertson was taking was his first on the Vanderbilt course this year.

ATTEMPT TO OPEN INSTITUTION.

York County Savings Bank May Resume Business Soon.

BIDDEFORD, Maine, Sept. 23.—The first legal move in an effort to enable the York County Savings Bank, whose doors were closed August 12, by the discovery of discrepancies in the accounts of the treasurer, Richmond H. Ingersoll, to resume business has been made by State Bank Examiner W. B. Skelton. Mr. Skelton presented a petition to Associate Justice King of the supreme court, at Alfred, setting forth that the bank is insolvent by reason of losses and depreciation in the value of its assets, and asking for an examination of the affairs of the institution under the provision of the statutes providing for the scaling down of deposits of insolvent banks, if the court sees fit after a hearing.

Justice King issued an order of notice, returnable at Alfred, October 1, when a hearing will be held at 10 o'clock. It is expected that a final statement by the bank examiner will be ready at that time. The grand jury of this court is considering evidence on the charges of embezzlement made against the former treasurer.

GOVERNMENT CROP ESTIMATE.

France May be Compelled to Import Wheat to Meet Home Deficiency.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—The government crop estimate for the year issued today is: Wheat 262,589,748 bushels against 335,573,052 bushels in 1909, Rye 44,576,396 bushels against 51,773,994 last year. Market experts figure that France will be compelled to import 82,350,000 bushels of wheat to meet the home deficiency.

IRRIGATION IN CUBA.

Sections of Island to Carry Out Project on a Large Scale.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Irrigation upon a large scale is to be tried out in certain sections of Cuba, which has suffered a big decrease in tobacco production during the last three years, through lack of rain, reports Minister Jackson at Havana. Pinar Del Rio, where the drought seems to have had disastrous effect has taken decisive steps toward obtaining an appropriation sufficiently large to irrigate the province. The other provinces are also considering the irrigation project.

A LARGE FALLING OFF.

Great Decrease in This Season's Pack of Sockeye Salmon.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The sockeye salmon season has closed in British Columbia and a large falling off is reported, compared with former seasons. Consul General West, at Vancouver, in a report, declares that this season's pack in the province was 549,000 cases as against 840,441 in 1902.

FLIES OVER THE MOUNTAIN PEAKS.

Peruvian Aviator Reaches Italian Side of Alps.

Chavez Sustains Painful Injuries and Machine Wrecked.

DOMODOSSOLA, Italy, Sept. 23.—To George Chavez, the Peruvian aviator, belongs the honor of being the first to fly across the Alps. The daring feat was accomplished today in an attempt to win the prize of $20,000 offered by the Italian Aviation Society of Milan, for a flight from Brig, Switzerland, to Milan. Chavez, however, was unable to complete the trip, having sustained painful injuries when he alighted here. His machine was overturned and he was buried in the wreckage. It is said that he fractured both legs and left thigh. Slowly and gracefully he neared the surface and was but about 30 feet above the ground when a gust of wind overturned the monoplane. It fell heavily, carrying the aviator beneath it.

The American aviator, Mr. Weymann, first attempted the flight, leaving the tableland at Brig at 1:10 o'clock this afternoon. Later word was received that he had descended after being in the air four minutes. Chavez got away at 1:29 o'clock and rose to a height, estimated to be nearly 7,000 feet. He passed swiftly over the top of the mountain, nearing the summit of Simplon Pass at 1:45. At that time his monoplane was moving as steadily as a railroad train.

After negotiating Simplon Pass Chavez followed the route over Gondo Gorge, one of the grandest, and at the same time one of the most savage of the Alps. He reached here at 2:11 o'clock. But for the mishap in alighting there is little doubt that he would have successfully continued to the goal as the remainder of the course presents little difficulty.

With the exception of Chavez and Weymann, the aviators abandoned the competition this morning. The time limit of the contest will expire tomorrow. Chavez's most notable feat up to today was in establishing a new altitude record, September 3 he rose to a height of 8,271 feet.

Chavez has waited impatiently for favorable weather along the route, where strong winds are the rule. This morning both sides of the Alps reported clear weather, but the top of the Simplon Pass was obscured in a haze. Chavez determined to make an attempt and rose to a height estimated at nearly 7,000 feet. It was known that it would be necessary for him to attain nearly this altitude to clear the Simplon Pas, the summit of which rises 6,502 feet.

He maintained apparently this altitude for at least half an hour and followed over the road built by Napoleon in 1800, over the Simplon Pass. He accomplished the eight miles that brought him over the top of Simplon and then sailed gracefully over the 18 miles to Domodossola. He had left the hardest part of his journey behind him, having escaped the high peaks and the jumble of rocky gorges on this side of the summit. The remaining distance to this city offers less difficulty, but takes the aviator over lake Maggiore and a succession of plains to the goal.

The distance from Brig, Switzerland, to Milan is 75 miles and the prize was for the aviator who should make the first flight, starting from a tableland 900 feet above sea level, at the head of the Rhode valley near Brig. In addition to reaching a height that would bring him over the Simplon summit and in doing which he must suffer severely from the cold, the aviator was required to guide his frail craft over wide chasms, notably the Gorge of Ysette, where a safe descent would be quite impossible and an accident must mean almost certain death. Aviation experts had predicted freely that the only alternative to a successful flight across the Alps was the death of the aviator.

Signal fires along the Napoleon road marked the way as far as Domodossola and the rest of the course was indicated by flags and buoys anchored on lake Maggore. The summit of the pass at Monscera was illuminated with oxhydroque lights and a captive balloon showed the finish line at the Aerodrome here.

AMERICAN AVIATOR FAILS.

Weymann, Unable to Reach Simplon Summit, Returns to Brig.

BRIG, Switzerland, Sept. 23.—Mr. Weymann, the American aviator, started on another attempt to cross the Alps at 3:43 o'clock this afternoon. He was unable to reach the summit of Simplon and turned back to Brig, landing 27 minutes from the time that he had started.

EXTENT OF CHOLERA EPIDEMIC.

New Cases of Plague Reported Almost Daily in St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 23.—The figures available at the sanitary bureau show that during the present cholera epidemic there have been 191,076 cases, with 83,761 deaths throughout the country. Today Khaburovsk, the seat of the general government of the Amur, and capital of Primorskaya province, Siberia and Nikolaevsk in the same province were officially declared to be within the cholera zone. In the week ending September 17 there was a total of 4,412 cases and 2,071 deaths. In the last six days there have been 301 new cases, and 83 deaths in this city. In the week previous there were 343 cases and 136 deaths.

CHOLERA SITUATION GRAVE.

Authorities of Naples Will Not Admit Epidemic is That Disease.

NAPLES, Sept. 23.—The cholera situation here is grave. There have been 50 cases and 30 deaths. The local authorities will not admit as yet that the epidemic is cholera.

FALL RIVER PLANT TO RE-OPEN.

American Printing Company to Begin Operations Next Week.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 23.—Announcement was made at the office of the American Printing Company that the plant would resume operations next week, the engraving department being already in operation. The plant has been idle during 16 weeks and it is figured that 1,600,000 pieces of printed cloth have been withheld from the market in consequence.

The Fall River Iron Works Company's seven mills, also owned by M. C. D. Borden of New York, have been operated on alternate weeks during the summer. No orders have yet been received to change the schedule. About 7,500 operatives are employed in the two plants.

PASSED AT FINAL SESSION.

Canadian Manufacturers Act on Imperial Preference.

VANCOUVER, British Columbia, Sept. 23.—With the concluding session of the Canadian Manufacturers Association convention here yesterday, resolutions were passed on imperial preference. The first asked the Canadian representatives in the forthcoming colonial conference to urge the desirability of taking immediate steps to bring about reciprocal preferential trade within the empire, believing thereby that the unity of the British empire will be strengthened and the empire largely freed from dependence upon foreign countries for food and other supplies. Another resolution urged the Canadian government to arrange for an interchange of commodities between Canada and Australia, on a preferential basis of customs duties.

W. H. Rowley, of Hull, Quebec, was elected president for 1911.

"BEEF" POWERFUL FACTOR.

Camp, Yale's advisor, Says Weight Counts in Team's Make-Up.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Walter Camp, athletic advisor of Yale, who stopped off here yesterday on his way to San Francisco, believes that "beef" is still a powerful factor in the make up of a winning football team, notwithstanding the fact that the new rules provide for a more open game. "It is true that there is more chance for a light, fast man to make an eleven under the revised code than formerly," explained Mr. Camp, "but weight will still be a powerful factor in the line and the fight back will be working under a handicap in smashing into a defense of heavy forwards. Weight is still a potential factor in the make-up of a winning eleven and those who contend that the new rules require players of beef are partially right in their contention."

11—There was a feeble rally after the opening dip, following which there was another severe break, in which all of the principal stocks scored losses of a point or more. Selling orders were well distributed and the pressure was most effective in the railroad group. St. Paul gave way 2 points, Amalgamated Copper 1½, Union Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Reading 1¼, and United States Steel and several others 1 or more. The markt hardened a trifle and became dull on the rally.

Noon—The depression of the market was ascribed principally to the views by commissioners at the railroad rate hearing against allowing increases in freight charges. Also disappointment was felt over the insistence by foreign bankers upon guarantees by banks of cotton bills of lading. The weakness of Amalgamated Copper grew out of reported reduction in the asking price of Lake Copper. The market was almost stagnant at the recovery of the second hour. Money on call steady at 1½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 5½ to 6 per cent. Exchanges $285,795,235; balances $9,891,663.

FOR DRAUGHT HORSES.

Most of the Prizes Go to "Oakland Farm" Teams.

Evening Entertainment and Awards for Exhibits at the County Fair.

The weather on the third day of the Newport County Agricultural Fair was ideal and large numbers were present from soon after noon until the last car, about midnight. One of the special features designed for the afternoon was omitted, as only one pair of working oxen was entered and there could be no contest, but the drawing match of pairs and fours, working horses, attracted to the lot back of the grounds fully half the people. Mr. A. G. Vanderbilt's coach came in with Mr. Wilson on the box, and five companions, two men and three women.

The first prize for draught horses required that the pair should be the best matched, age, soundness and best pulling. The entries were Oakland Farm, driver, J. Fred Sherman; Oakland Farm, Manuel Smith; Oakland Farm, Joe Marshall; Oakland Farm, Frank Goncalves; Rhode Island Coal Company, S. Jackson; E. Voigt, E. Voigt; D. A. Ballou, Joe Reposa. Ernst Voigt gained the blue ribbon, J. Fred Sherman the red and the Rhode Island Coal Company, the yellow.

Class 2, without regard to soundness and age, pulling best—Oakland Farm, J. F. Sherman; Oakland Farm, Manuel Smith; Oakland Farm, Joe Marshall; Oakland Farm, Goncalves; Rhode Island Coal Company, S. Jackson; E. Voigt, E. Voigt. Goncalves took first honors, and Jackson second.

Class 3, four-horse team, conditions same as No. 1—Oakland Farm, J. Fred Sherman; Oakland Farm, J. Marshall; Oakland Farm, E. Voigt. Sherman, Marshall and Voigt took the honors in the order named.

Class 4, four-horse team, same as No. 2—Oakland Farm, J. F. Sherman, first; Oakland Farm, J. Marshall, second.

The next event of the afternoon was supper. The menu included quahaug chowder, roast lamb, vegetable salad, white and brown bread, cranberry sauce, pickles, coffee and cake, and all who were served spoke in its praise.

At 7 o'clock the Barker Sisters, Beulah and Bessie, gave one of their dances, in gypsy costumes of silver and gold gilt, jewelry, ribbons, spangles and glittering trimmings. The gypsy dance from "The Bohemian Girl" was remarkably pretty. In answer to encores they gave another dance and sang two songs, "In the Western State of Arizona" and "Moon, My Sweet Indian Maid," Mrs. Belle Talman, pianist. She continued to play for a time and as the Temple banjo, mandolin and guitar club of Providence had not yet arrived Miss Marjorie Hicks was persuaded to repeat the whistling solo of Wednesday evening. She had, however, given but a few bars when the club arrived and was ready in a few minutes to begin the following program:

Grand overture, "Themes from 'Il Trovatore,'" St. Clair, by club; mandolin and guitar duet, "Hearts and Flowers," Tobani, Messrs. Chapman and Bunker; recitation, Mr. Kneeland; "A Day in the Cotton Field," Smith and Dublin, by club; banjo solo, selected, Mr. Scott; ventriloquist recitation; medley of popular songs, arranged by Scott, by the club; guitar duet, "Down Among the Sugar Cane," arranged by W. Burke, Messrs. Hunker and Aubin; recitation, selected, Mr. Kneeland; Second Regiment March, the club. At the close of the entertainment dancing followed until a late hour.

The attendance numbered about the same as the day before, estimated at 2,500; tickets for the day, 1,260, which does not include season tickets. The number did not appear so large, however, as instead of being concentrated in one place the people were widely scattered.

In the cattle department Dennis J. Murphy, of "Ogden Farm" had a fine collection of Ayshires and Jerseys. He received first premium on working oxen and second on a pair of fat oxen. Walter Sherman, for gray Jerseys one year old, was given second premium; the Cornell farm won two first premiums on Jersey cows. Nahum Green first premium on Guernsey bull, and H. A. C. Taylor first premium on Jersey cows, and second on Guernsey calves. Ten prizes were awarded to "Glen Farm" for Guernseys. Noticeable in the poultry exhibit were seven Belgian hares, four weeks old; a pair of Belgian breeding hares, a pen of five silver lace Wyandottes, a pair of Muscovy ducks, a pair of wild geese, and 11 wild ducks.

Ten prizes were given for swine. Among the number were two litters of pigs, one of ten and the other nine. Thirty-three sheep were awarded prizes, mostly Southdowns.

In poultry John H. Duvol and Philip Wilbor were judges. Six baby rabbits, a pair of dragon pigeons, three pens of Rhode Island Reds from "Cozy Corner" and a pair of Jap silkie fowls attracted considerable attention.

There were 135 entries in the fancy work department; judges, Mrs. R. J. Barker, Mrs. J. A. Elliott and Mrs. W. R. Harvey; in the children's department Mrs. Philip Wilbor, Mrs. John A. Elliott and Miss Arvesta Champlin. In class H, flowers and plants, George Stoddard of Newport; class E, bread and cake, Mrs. H. Frank Anthony and Mrs. John Simmons; Class P, canned and preserved fruit and vegetables, Mrs. Warren R. Sherman and Mrs. Henry Clay Osborne; class I, Simon Hart of Newport, and Mrs. Bessie Cram of Boston; class S, knitting and crocheting, Mrs. M. A. Steele, Mrs. John R. Manchester, Mrs. Richard J. Barker.

The first prize for collection of vegetables and squashes was given to "Ogden Farm." There were 94 entries in the fruit department.

THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Its Needs and Requirements for Future Prosperity.

Report Made by Miss Edith M. Tilley on Work Done by the Treasurer and Librarian.

In connection with an appeal to the public for additional support, in the interest of increased revenue, the Newport Historical Society is sending out a circular letter containing a report made by Miss Edith May Tilley, daughter of the late R. Hammett Tilley, for many years treasurer and librarian of the society. It includes much of general interest to the public of Newport and is as follows:

To the president and members of the Newport Historical Society:

I have been asked to prepare for this meeting (at which it is understood that I am allowed to surrender the responsibility which has so unexpectedly fallen upon me) a report which will show you what work has to be done at these rooms, and the amount of money needed to carry on this work and enable you to meet the deficit in the treasury. And first I think a word of explanation is necessary, since during the past few weeks I have learned that none of the general public, few of your members and only one or two of your directors realize the kind and amount of work that has been carried on here at almost no expense to you. Those who do know have asked for this explanation, since in planning for the future, it is absolutely necessary to take into consideration what has been done in the past.

This institution includes, as you know, a museum filled with interesting and valuable relics; a newspaper room, with a collection which has been arranged and made available and is frequently consulted; a library of really good reference books, especially valuable for students of Rhode Island and Newport history, which is constantly in use. As your funds are small, this library has been obtained chiefly by gifts and exchange, constant watchfulness being exercised in order that no book obtainable in the latter manner might escape notice. In your vaults are deposited Church records; also the old town records which are being preserved and re-bound by means of the city's appropriation, but arranged and cared for here, and consulted by hundreds of people, including many lawyers of this city. The vaults also contain many manuscripts and valuable papers, which have been arranged and indexed under the personal supervision of your librarian. A card system has been used which makes everything immediately available, even when in process of completion, as of course this work still is. All the official work of the society, including notices for meetings, printing and sending out reports and circulars etc., etc., is attended to here; and lastly, among a multitude of requests for information which come in daily over the telephone, or in personal visits, a large correspondence has been carried on with the many people all over the country, who write for information concerning local history. It would seem then that all these matters require the assistance of several persons, and yet only one, the librarian, has received a salary from the society. This salary, which was fixed at $500, he took, not regularly, but when the treasury allowed it, and at the end of the year, the balance often remained unpaid. This, too, I have been asked to say, as only those who attended the annual meetings knew this.

In regard to janitor's work in caring for the building. This work is necessarily heavy since there are two buildings, and they are visited so constantly that frequent sweeping and cleaning are necessary as well as desirable, and in the winter fires must be kept up, of course. The society has never been able to make provision for a regular janitor, and all the work that my father was physically able to do, he did. When his health began to fail, several years ago, much of this work had to be done by someone else, and when

MISS MARY WANTON HAZARD.

Death in the Ancient Broadway Mansion of Another Member of Long-Lived Family.

About 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, at the ancient family mansion, No. 17 Broadway, occurred the death of Miss Mary Wanton Hazard, aged 95 years, 6 months and 17 days. She was the daughter of Benjamin Hazard and the granddaughter of Colonel Daniel Lyman of the Revolution, afterwards chief justice of Rhode Island, and was born and spent her whole life, save temporary visits elsewhere, in the house in which she died.

Miss Hazard was distinguished by the spirit of independence and keen sense of justice characteristic of the family, and an unwillingness to incur any obligations, even from her nearest relatives and friends, although herself kind, sympathetic, generous and charitable. She was always ready, even anxious, to hasten to the support and comfort of her relatives and friends in time of sickness or need. She had a fine, well balanced mind, strong good sense, was an omnivorous reader, unusually well informed, and used to discuss politics and all the topics of the day with great intelligence and interest.

With her oldest sister, Miss Emily Lyman Hazard, who died a centenarian a year ago last April, she kept up the family home for 30 years, since the death of her mother Mrs. Harriet Lyman Hazard, in 1874, maintaining there the charming traditions of old-fashioned hospitality and courtesy. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Margaret L. Stevens, of Boston, widow of General Isaac T. Stevens, who is in her ninety-fourth year, and two brothers, Mr. Daniel Lyman Hazard of Jamestown and Mr. Thomas George Hazard of Narragansett, who are in their eighty-eighth and eighty-sixth years respectively.

A POEM PLAY OF PICTURES.

Eugene Walter's play, "The Wolf," might be called a poem play of pictures. The curtain rises on a beautiful scene. It is Indian summer in the northern woods. Pines and golden foliage mingle their light and shade. A stream winds down the avenues of cottonwoods. In the background are the blue foothills. To the right is the log house of McTavish, with a great tree in front of it. Under the tree sits Baptiste, the "Canuck," pulling at his pipe. In the porchway is the gaunt form of McTavish. He, too, is smoking. The two men puff in silence for a moment while the auditor takes in the perfect coloring perspective and grouping of the scene. Then McTavish says: "You say that she died, mon?"

Another of these pretty picture effects is in act 3. Two men are squatting in the foreground. Standing is the tall, lithe, graceful figure of Jules Beaublen. Hilda appears at the top of the trail, carrying the canoe paddle. She stands there an instant, holding the paddle like a spear, framed in the dark pine and golden twilight coloring, with the sunset reddening ominously about her. One almost expects to hear the wild cry of the Valkyrie.

FOR MISS FISH'S WEDDING.

Miss Emily Rozalind Fish, daughter of Mr. Hamilton Fish, will be married to Mr. John W. Cutler of Boston in St. Philips Church, Garrison, N. Y., October 22. Her attendants will be Misses Eleanor Mortimer, Dagmar Wetmore, Hortense Howland, Jessie Thompson, Helena Fish, a sister; Edyth Deacon, Helen Coster, Elizabeth Cutting, Janetta Alexander and Katherine Tweed. After the ceremony, which will be witnessed by relatives and most immediate friends, there will be a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish.

TO BURY THE WIRES.

Conduit to be Constructed in Upper Bellevue Avenue.

Aldermen Appoint a Committee to Heat and Equip Temporary Polling Places.

The Board of Aldermen held its weekly meeting Thursday evening, Mayor Boyle presiding and all the members present.

The weekly pay rolls were approved for the following sums: Street and Highways, $2,607.08; police, $797.42; fire department, $499.95; city officers, $235.04; public buildings, $11.54; firemen in theatres, $36.

The bill of M. F. Sullivan for carting crushed stone, for $123.82, was approved.

A petition was received from the Newport & Fall River Street Railway Company, which said that in pursuance of the order of the Board of Aldermen of April 1, 1910, fixing a time within which the overhead wire arrangement on Bellevue avenue, between Bath Road and Kay street, must be removed, the company is desirous of constructing an underground conduit with the necessary manholes, laterals and outlets, and install and maintain wires and cables therein, for the transmission of electricity in the conduct of its business. The company accordingly asked for permission to construct an underground conduit from the corner of Bath road and Bellevue avenue to the corner of Kay street and Bellevue avenue. There are to be laterals on Catherine street from Bellevue avenue to Elizabeth street, and along Elizabeth street to Centre street; on Redwood, Mill, Pelham, Downing, Prospect Hill, DeBlois and John streets and Old Beach road, as shown on plans for the work accompanying the petition.

Mayor Boyle suggested that the board would throw no obstacle in the way of the building of conduits. The SHOOTING MUCH BETTER.

Scores of Artillery Marksmen Show Great Improvement.

Nearly Twice as Many Men Qualify with the Revolver and Rifle.

While the season for rifle shooting by the militia is not yet quite spent, Inspector of Rifle Practice Patterson has made up the records of the Newport Artillery Company for this work during the past season, and even if not another man shoots the record is one of which to be proud. Much of the shooting was done on the field day last Monday, when weather conditions were far from ideal for rifle practice. Still the men did remarkably well. It was a great day for experience with the windage, and at times the men were using more than three points of windage in shooting at the 500-yard mark. The experience in the field under the trying conditions which existed was good also in other ways.

Some idea of the improvement shown this year may be had from comparisons. Last year 11 men were qualified with the revolver, this year the number is 22; last year 29 qualified with the rifle; this year there were 50. The basis of this great improvement was laid some time since, but it has taken some time to bring it out. Now, however, the men are showing the good effects of the instruction and practice they have had.

The independent militia commands of the state are today shooting for their trophy at the state range. The Artillery sent no team, as the men found it impossible to leave business the day off Monday being all they could have. With the improvement made all along the line this season Colonel King feels that the inability of the men to go is all which kept the trophy from coming to Newport this year.

The conditions which prevailed last Monday and the excellent showing then made please more than the fine record of the whole season, for then the adaptability of the men was shown.

The following are the scores made up to the present time, and perhaps they will be the final record:
